

THE OHIO ALUMNUS

1946 - 1947

OHIO UNIVERSITY LIBRARY
ATHENS - OHIO

GIFT OF

Clark E. Williams

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2010 with funding from Lyrasis Members and Sloan Foundation

<http://www.archive.org/details/ohioalumnusmay19258ohio>

The OHIO ALUMNUS

May - 1947

From the Editor's Desk . . .

TRIBUTE Of all the tributes paid Carl W. Bingman, '11, prominent Texas public schoolman following his death (see page 23) the ones most touching and sincere were perhaps those of the children and the young people of his community who were the subjects of his greatest interest.

Superintendent Bingman was known to literally thousands of his students and former students as "Skipper Bingman." From their earliest school days he encouraged the youngsters to greet him with a cheery, "Hi, Skipper," when they met him, whether at school, on the playground, or on the street.

He took a particular interest in students who showed outstanding promise regardless of social or economic background, and many of his city's present leaders have credited to him the encouragement that led to their present successes.

A tribute composed and sent to the widow by members of the Student Council of South Park High School contained the following statement: "We loved him with a love that is immeasurable and indefinable. We loved him for his kindness; and if everyone to whom he had done a kind deed were to send a flower, there would be mountains of blossoms. We loved him for his happy, booming voice which filled the halls of our building. We loved him simply, completely and wholly."

Few of us will have finer things said of us when at length we depart this earthly life.

LEADER Ohio University scores (or scoops) again. Our alma mater, it is believed, is the first school in the country to promote, by such an extensive and intensive program as that recently carried on here, a better understanding of the aims, methods, and organization of the United Nations. We'll hazard a guess that this "educational campaign against provincialism which breeds isolationism" will take fire in other universities — and, once again, it will be Ohio University that launched a significant movement.

SERVICE The Alumni Secretary and other officers at Ohio University are privileged, and pleased, to serve their friends and constituents in various and sundry ways.

Not many weeks ago an alumnus in a distant state wrote that if his fiancée, a teacher, could locate a satisfactory replacement for herself it would be possible for them to get married immediately. Would the secretary help?

Sure thing. Contact was established immediately with Dr. Einar Hansen, dean of University College and director of the Bureau of Appointments, and the problem placed before this genial and warmhearted gentleman. Would the director help?

Why, of course. In his characteristically thorough and energetic manner Director Hansen interviewed dozens of persons until he finally found one with qualifications for and interest in the position from which the fiancée wished to be released.

Comes a card recently from the alumnus: "Dear Dr. Hansen—Thanks for recommending a prospect for the job at B—. I am happy to report that your person was accepted, and I'm to be married SOON."

COVER The article on the opposite page tells of the recent visit to the campus of this month's cover page subject, Sir Guy Garrod, Air Chief Marshal of the British Army.

Sir Guy is not only a very distinguished, but a very human person. A graduate of Oxford University, he fits perfectly our notion of "a scholar and a gentleman" and of "an officer and a gentleman."

Although his schedule at Ohio University made heavy demands upon his physical energies he was at all times poised and keenly interested in the persons whom he met. He was, of course, interested in the student-veterans, and time after time he stopped men on the campus to inquire how they were getting along and if the university were able to give them the educational opportunities they were seeking.

In "off the record" sessions Sir Guy replied frankly to the questions put to him by his listeners. Whether or not one was in complete agreement with his views—and, apparently, only a few were not—one could not help admiring his sincerity and appreciating his willingness to discuss issues. Not enough of our well-informed visitors take us behind the scenes, as it were, and really let us see what goes on there.

THE OHIO ALUMNUS

Official Publication of

The Ohio University Alumni Association

CLARK E. WILLIAMS, '21, Editor
Published Monthly, October to June inclusive

Vol. XXV May, 1947 No. 8

ENTERED as second class matter, October 3, 1927, at the Postoffice at Athens, Ohio, under the act of March 3, 1897.

ANNUAL DUES for membership in the Ohio University Alumni Association are $2.50, of which $1.50 is for a year's subscription to The Ohio Alumnus. Memberships are renewable on October first of each year.

DISCONTINUANCE—If any subscriber wishes his Alumnus discontinued at the expiration of his subscription, notice to that effect should be sent with the subscription, or at its expiration. Otherwise it is understood that a continuance is desired.

REMITTANCE should be made by check or money order, payable to the order of the Ohio University Alumni Association, and mailed to the Association, Box 285, Athens, Ohio.

An Adventure in Internationalism

By WILFRED J. SMITH, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of History, Ohio University

AMONG the green rolling hills of southeastern Ohio a program of internationalism has been sponsored by Ohio University at Athens. A school which had its original land grant from the Continental Congress, and is proud of being the oldest educational institution in what was once the Northwest Territory, has undertaken to make the mission of the United Nations more intelligible and significant to its students, faculty, and also to townspersons and other citizens residing in its area.

Described by President Baker as "the most significant educational program any university or college might hope to undertake," the United Nations is no longer a mere name to thousands of citizens residing in southeastern Ohio and West Virginia.

In December of last year, President Baker dispatched two of his faculty members to New York to observe the U.N. in action. They attended meetings of committees, listened to debates by the Security Council and in the General Assembly. They talked with delegates and from it all gained a personalized appreciation of the United Nations, its objectives, and its problems.

Immediately upon their return plans were made and tested to bring a broader appreciation of the U. N. into the everyday living of Ohio citizens whether enrolled as students or citizens resident in Athens and its many neighboring towns. A University Steering Committee was appointed to coordinate its efforts with a larger group representing business, labor, church, and numerous civic and fraternal clubs. The objective of these groups was not propaganda, but a concerted drive to mobilize every effort into an educational campaign against provincialism which breeds isolationism, and to create a realistic internationalism worthy of newly acquired American responsibilities in the postwar years.

In school assemblies, at civic luncheon meetings, to the D.A.R., American Legion posts, and coal miner and the farmer, the United Nations was the theme for discussion. A speaking campaign was conducted by Ohio University faculty members who drove an estimated 1,750 miles to give in excess of fifty addresses in Athens, southeastern Ohio, and West Virginia. In connection with the campaign, thousands of pieces of literature descriptive of the U.N. were distributed for reading and to furnish material for discussion group study. Artistic posters prepared by the U.N.

Chief, Division of International Security, U.S. Department of State, was a guest on the campus. Dr. Johnson spoke at a morning convocation before a large audience of students and townspeople. The subject of his address was, "American Security and the United Nations." In the afternoon Dr. Johnson was guest of honor at a student coffee hour where he was the target of many excellent questions. In the evening Dr. Johnson addressed a dinner meeting of the AAUW and discussed interesting episodes in modern diplomacy as he had observed them.

On April 10, Senor Garcia Robles, Chief of the Political Committee of the Security Council, U.N., accompanied by Dr. Edmond Wright, Executive Assistant to the Assistant Secretary General of the United Nations, spent two days on the campus. Senor Robles addressed two meetings in Memorial Auditorium discussing various aspects of the Security Council. Dr. Wright was guest speaker before a group of Ohio University Branch students at Zanesville on the evening of April 10. Another coffee hour with lively student participation was held on Friday afternoon with both Drs. Robles and Wright present.

Interest in the United Nations was intensified and brought to a fitting climax with the visit, May 5-6, of Air Chief Marshal Sir Guy Garrod, K.C.B., O.B.E., M.C. and D.F.C., British Chief, Military Staff Committee of the U. N. and Colonel Brooke F. Allen, U. S. Representative for Air, on the same committee.

Sir Guy in visiting the campus was seeing his first American university. He was given an intimate insight into various phases of student life. Fraternities which had requested to have Sir Guy as their guest were too numerous to allow him to visit them each separately. In consequence lots were drawn and Phi Delta Theta had the privilege of playing host to Sir Guy at a luncheon. The occasion was one of mutual enjoyment for both the educational division were on many a rural school bulletin board.

(Continued on next page)

Sir Guy Garrod and Dr. Wilfred J. Smith

Students at the university were quick to support the campaign. The memory of World War II and the tragic apathy of the prewar years was not yet forgotten. To the many veterans, as to the regular students, the Gold Star banners hanging in the Edwin Watts Chubb Library were an eloquent reminder of what happened because of apathy and isolationism.

Revising the Town Hall meeting, a popular student activity before the war, a large student audience on March 1 heard a discussion on the topic, "Can the U.N. Succeed?"

On April 9, Dr. Joseph E. Johnson,

Associate State Commissioner

FRIENDS of Dr. Lawrence L. Jarvie, '28, will be happy to know of his outstanding success in the field of education. A native of Renfrew, Scotland, and a three-time letter winner in football at Ohio University, he is now associate commissioner of the University of the State of New York—a nonexistent "university" which is, in fact, the State Education Department.

After leaving Ohio University in 1928, Dr. Jarvie became headmaster of the Valley Ranch School, Valley, Wyo. He remained there until 1933, and during the summers completed work for a master's degree at Ohio State University. During this period he also managed to get in a trip to Europe.

In 1933 he spent one semester in the Graduate School of Education at Harvard, then returned to Ohio State to acquire his Ph.D. degree in 1936. A portion of this time, 1933-36, he served as a research associate in the public schools of Washington, D.C., and as an assistant professor at George Washington University.

The Ohioan became director of research, in 1937, of the Rochester (N.Y.) Institute of Technology. While at the Rochester school he became a member of the Commission on Teacher Education on a half-time basis beginning in 1939. In this latter work he was a consultant on personnel and administration to 35 universities, teachers colleges, liberal arts colleges, and large and small public school systems throughout the country.

Entering the Army in 1942 Dr. Jarvie spent a large part of his time in service as chief of training at the Command and General Staff School, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans. In the ETO he was educational consultant for the theater headquarters, and was given the responsibility of organizing and setting up the Warton American Technical School for 4,000 students.

In 1946 Dr. Jarvie became full-time consultant to the New York State Department of Education. Later in the same year he was appointed associate commissioner of education, with responsibility for developing an over-all program of state technical institutes.

At various times the New York man has been a visiting faculty member at the University of Chicago, Colorado State College for Teachers, Columbia University, and several other schools, and also has served as a consultant on training programs to industries. He has written many articles of a professional nature, co-authored several books, and is an advisory editor to Harper and Brothers.

Dr. Lawrence L. Jarvie

(Continued from preceding page) visitor and his hosts. At three o'clock Sir Guy was entertained at a tea at the home of President and Mrs. Baker with members and guests of the Public Affairs Club present. The hour was devoted to questions directed to Sir Guy, and his charming manner and utter sincerity won him new friends as was true wherever he appeared.

In the late afternoon the Ohio University R.O.T.C. units paraded in honor of the distinguished Britisher. During the review a brief ceremony was held during which Sir Guy was made a member of Pershing Rifles, national military fraternity, on nomination of Company F1, the Ohio University chapter.

In the evening the air chief marshal spent an hour and a half as leader of a forum discussion at the Men's Faculty Club. Following this he visited the Men's Dormitory where several hundred men kept him answering questions on international relations until almost midnight.

An Adventure In Internationalism

Colonel Allen traveled to Portsmouth for a meeting with Ohio University Branch students on the evening of May 5. These students conducted a forum discussion on the U.N., with Colonel Allen as their guest, which was broadcast over the local radio station. Later Colonel Allen spoke to a large gathering of students and townspeople in Portsmouth on the general topic of the United Nations.

Dr. Wilfred J. Smith was one of the two faculty men sent to New York to observe various units of the United Nations organization in action. His colleague was Dean Evan R. Collins of the College of Education. Dr. Smith was also chairman of the University Steering Committee which worked out the plans for the local U.N. program.

The Ohio University faculty man, who spent 42 months in overseas military service, was discharged with the rank of colonel. With the Office of Strategic Services, he was attached to the 14th Air Force in China, where he was closely associated with General Claire Chennault of the famed "Flying Tigers." In November, 1943, he was awarded the Legion of Merit on order of Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, commanding general of the C-B-I Theater.

Dr. Smith was born in China and has spent a total of 21 years of his life in the Far East. Besides his courses in history, he also teaches an elementary course in the Chinese language.

On Tuesday, May 6, Sir Guy Garrod addressed an audience of several thousand students and townspeople. His address was the first verbal announcement to the public on the subject of the report of the important Military Staff Committee to the Security Council rendered less than a week previously. The speaker, although mentioning serious obstacles still to be overcome, stressed the point that progress had been made in negotiating more effectively military controls for the postwar world. He emphasized the need of patience, understanding, and faith in dealing with representatives from national states having a cultural and political background differing from our own.

(Continued on page 11)

— June Commencement Is Near —

ALMOST 400 seniors will soon take "the long walk" out of Ewing Hall, past the library, under the Elms, and into Alumni Memorial Auditorium where they will receive from President Baker diplomas evidencing the successful completion of a wide variety of degree courses. The class will be composed of 23 candidates for masters' degrees, 350 for baccalaureate degrees, and 14 for special two-year diplomas.

The two-day commencement program will open on Sunday morning, June 8, with the Baccalaureate Service at 10:30 a.m. in Alumni Memorial Auditorium. The sermon will be given by the Rev. Dr. James W. Clarke, a Scottish-born clergyman now minister of the Second Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, Mo.

The Graduation Exercises will be held in the Auditorium at 10:30 (E.S.T.) Monday morning, June 9, with Dr. James B. Conant, Harvard University's famed scientist-president, as the speaker.

Seat reservations will not be required for either the baccalaureate or commencement program.

From four to five-thirty Sunday afternoon President and Mrs. Baker will hold a reception for seniors and their commencement guests, alumni, faculty, and members of the Board of Trustees, in the garden of the president's home on East Union Street.

President and Mrs. Baker cordially invite alumni, together with wives or husbands, to attend this reception. It is hoped that President Conant, and Mrs. Conant, who will accompany her husband, will arrive from Cambridge in time to join the Ohio University president and his wife in the receiving line.

The annual Commencement Supper, now an established tradition, will be held "under the Elms" at six o'clock Sunday evening. As usual, tickets are required for this popular event. The cost of the tickets, which must be secured or reserved in advance by calling at or writing to the Alumni Office, second floor, Wilson Hall, is sixty-five cents each. Alumni, seniors and their guests, and faculty members are included among those eligible to attend the supper which will be served picnic style.

Because of the crowded housing conditions in Athens—in hotels, dormitories, and private homes—the promotion of class reunions, with one exception, is not being attempted this year. The exception is in the case of the Class of 1912 whose local committee is proceeding with plans for a 35th anniversary reunion which will include, among other features, a class breakfast on Monday morning, June 9.

Class reunions and the annual Alumni Luncheon will be restored to the commencement calendar as soon as conditions permit. The Commencement Supper will serve as a general reunion event this year. Trees in the mid-campus area will be marked with class numerals and will serve as rallying centers for alumni of the various class years.

President James Bryant Conant

At seven-thirty Sunday evening, a musical program participated in by artists of the School of Music faculty and outstanding vocal and instrumental performers from senior and under graduate ranks will be held in the Auditorium. There will be no admission charge.

Educated in Scotland and Canada, Dr. Clarke, the baccalaureate speaker, has held pastorates in Montreal, Winnipeg, and St. Louis. For a three-year period he was president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Chicago. Dr. Clarke holds the British Military Cross for extraordinary bravery in World War I.

Dr. Conant, the commencement speaker, had just passed his 40th birthday when elected to the presidency of Harvard University in 1933, making him one of the youngest in the long line of administrators extending back to the first one, Henry Dunster, in 1640. Though still a young man at the time of accepting the executive position, Dr. Conant was internationally recognized as a leader in modern scientific research and investigation.

He was the second scientist named for the presidency of Harvard. President Eliot was also professor of chemistry in 1869, but prior to that time Harvard had held closely to the tradition of choosing its presidents from among the clergy.

In 1941 Dr. Conant was appointed deputy director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and chairman of the National Defense Research Committee. Under his direction, work on atomic energy was reorganized and greatly accelerated.

He went to London in 1941 to set up liaison with the British program which marked the beginning of interchange between the two countries on technical matters connected with instruments of war.

The Harvard president, who is one of the world's authorities on the nature of chlorophyll, the green substance in plants, holds honorary degrees from 25 colleges in the United States and abroad, and has been a scientific director of the Rockefeller Institute since 1930.

While not yet completed or equipped the new Chemistry Building on President Street, opposite the Men's Gymnasium, will be open for the inspection of returning alumni and others who may care to visit it. It

(Continued on page 14)

On and About the Campus . . .

TWO RECENT weekends were busy ones on the Ohio University campus. On April 25 approximately 200 students and teachers from high schools in 17 Southeastern Ohio counties attended Ohio University's second annual Science Day. The program for the occasion included displays in all science departments of the university and an exhibit of scientific projects entered by the visiting students. Awards were made for winning projects.

Two state-wide conferences and the district-state scholarship tests were held on the campus the next weekend, May 2-3.

The Public Relations Roundtable, sponsored by the School of Journalism, attracted 30 professional public relations men from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Akron, Columbus, Dayton, Chicago, Ill., Washington, D. C., Carlisle, Pa., Evansville, Ind., and other cities. During the roundtable an attempt was made to determine: (1) what subjects should be most strongly stressed in educating a public relations counselor; (2) what specific knowledge is essential to a public relations worker. The visitors, who represented some of the nation's leading firms and agencies, were highly impressed by the training program already under way in the school of Journalism of which George Starr Lasher is the director.

Sponsored by the Department of Industrial Arts, headed by Prof. Charles R. Kinison, the Ohio Industrial Education Conference brought together representatives of seven universities which engage in the preparation of teachers for industrial arts laboratories. The purpose of the meeting was to give each member attending "a complete picture of the offerings and requirements of the seven schools."

High school students from six Southeastern Ohio counties came to the campus on May 3 to participate in the district-state scholarship tests which were given under the direction of the Scholarship Tests Division of the State Department of Education. Ohio University serves as governing center for 12 other counties in the district, but because of their geographical locations sub-centers were set up.

PHYLLIS "TERRY" JENKINS, Toledo, sophomore, placed first in the Eastern Division of the Interstate Oratorical Association contest at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., late last month. In the national finals Miss Jenkins was defeated by a South Dakota co-ed. She competed in the inter-state contest after winning first place in the Ohio Intercollegiate Speech Conference competition held at Ohio University in February. Her oration, "The Stranger Within Our Gates," dealt with communism in Latin America. Miss Jenkins' trip to Evanston was financed by a grant from the Ohio University Fund, Inc.

Phyllis "Terry" Jenkins

STACIL M. WICKENS, '38, Nelsonville, an electrical engineer with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and a member of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, addressed the Ohio University Engineers Club on May 7. At this meeting Dean E. J. Taylor of the College of Applied Science urged all engineering seniors, as well as alumni, with possible interest in the matter to take the state examinations for registration as professional engineers to be given in Columbus, July 18-19, at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel. Application blanks may be secured from Dr. D. B. Green, chairman of the electrical engineering department at Ohio University. The deadline for the filing of applications is June 1.

CHOOSING for his topic, "The Role of Reason in Citizenship," Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati and a national senator of Phi Beta Kappa, gave the address at the initiation banquet of Ohio University's Phi Beta Kappa chapter at Hotel Berry on May 13. Dr. Lawrence P. Eblin, '31, associate professor of chemistry and chapter president, presided at the banquet which was preceded by the initiation ceremony. The names of undergraduates elected to the society this spring were given in the April Alumnus.

OHIIO UNIVERSITY's Veteran's Club has folded up. The main reason, says Veterans Co-ordinator Victor Whitehouse, is that most of the almost 3,500 former service men on the campus "have grown tired of being classed as ex-G.I.'s. In short, they're civilians and typical college students again and want to get away from being thought of solely as veterans." The veterans have found the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and reserve officers' clubs to be adequate for maintaining their interest in military affairs. One hundred dollars in the two-year-old Veteran's Club treasury has been given to the Ohio University Fund, Inc., while the remainder of the money in the exchequer was given to the American Red Cross and the World Student Service Fund. Despite abandonment of the men's organization, the Women's Veterans Club is still going strong with a membership of 45 former WACs, WAVES, Marines, and nurses. In addition, the Veteran's Wives Club continues to provide a social and educational program for wives of the 649 married veterans on the campus.

ALTHOUGH NOT directly university-sponsored, 16 Ohio colleges were represented by more than 100 delegates at the Ohio Methodist Student Movement spring training conference which was held in Athens, May 2-4. The conference theme was "Christian Leadership on a Growing Campus."

DR. VIVIAN ROBERTS, director of Ohio University's School of Home Economics, was installed on April 19 as president of the Ohio Home Economics Association at the organization's annual convention in Columbus. Miss Roberts succeeds Miss Marion F. Breck of the College of Home Economics at the University of Cincinnati.

A MAY DAY Poetry Festival, which it is hoped will become an annual event, was held May 1 under the sponsorship of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech. The program was featured by the choral speaking of Vachel Lindsay's poems with accompanying dance movements, rhythm, and music. The festival director was M. W. Tillson, instructor in dramatic art and speech.

A ROMANCE which began a year ago in Holland, where Robert Melzer, Lakewood, now an Ohio University freshman, was a lonely G.I. and Miss Barbara Bos was an interpreter at headquarters of the Air Command in Amsterdam, was culminated on May 3 when the young couple was married in the Lindley Hall Lounge with more than 200 Ohio University faculty members and students as well wishers and wedding guests. As a result of unexpected speed in the handling of her request for permission to enter the country, Miss Bos arrived in Athens earlier than was anticipated, and the planned-for June wedding was advanced on the calendar. The entire wedding, one of the prettiest ever held in Athens, was planned for the bride by Miss Louise Field, assistant dean of women, and the girls of Lindley Hall.

IT IS A MATTER of regret on the part of the editor of The Alumnus that space will not permit a reproduction of the three poems that were awarded prizes this spring in the Emerson Poetry Contest. All three of the prize-winning entries are of more than usual length. The first prize, $60, was awarded by the judges to Irwin R. Blacker, '47, Cleveland, for his poem, "On the Road to Gossetto." It deals with some of the author's experiences in World War II. The poem, "Man Talks to Himself," by Albert M. Fiering, '46, New York City, was awarded second place and a prize of $40. "Mood Imbrogio" was the subject of the third-place winner, which was written by Melville Kirzon, a New York senior. His prize was $20. The judges this year were Dr. Hiram Roy Wilson, '96, Athens; Carr Liggett, '16, Cleveland; Mrs. Josephine Young Case, Hamilton, N. Y.; and Dean Edward Davison, Washington, Pa.

MISHEL PIASTRO (see picture), world-famed violinist and conductor of the Longines Symphonette, and who was guest conductor of the University Symphony

Conductor Mishel Piastro

Orchestra concert on May 4, voiced high praise for the Ohio musicians after the concert was over. The same favorable reaction was expressed by Dr. Archibald T. Davison (picture next month), founder and conductor of the Harvard Glee Club, at the conclusion of a concert by the combined glee clubs on May 11. The Men's Glee Club, normally directed by Prof. P. L. Peterson, and the Women's Glee Club, regularly directed by Prof. C. C. Robinson, were brought together to make up a 108-voice choir.

A GREATLY accelerated interest on the part of high school administrators in providing automobile driver education and training for students of licensable age has created a demand for properly-trained instructors. To help meet this demand Ohio University will offer a special course, "Administration of Driver Education," in the 1947 Summer School.

THE LATEST novel, "Sassatras Hill," of Charles Allen Smart, Writer-in-Residence at Ohio University and author of three other novels, came off the press on May 1. His "R.F.D." was a Book-of-the-Month Club selection a few years ago. The new novel is a delightful romance laid in the rolling country side of Southern Ohio near Chillicothe, called in the book, Massietown.

NOW UNDER construction on the front of the campus immediately north of "The Elms" are two temporary structures the purpose of which is to relieve the pressure on university facilities at two vital points. Made available by the FWA, one of the temporary buildings is 130 feet long by 50 feet wide and will be used as a student recreation center and an auxiliary to the Student Grill. The building, which has been moved to Athens from Wright Field, Dayton, will be furnished with booths, tables, and a snack bar. A juke box will be installed for dancing. On the other side of the center walk is being erected a temporary two-story building from Camp Perry, Va., which will provide badly needed faculty office and classroom space.

IN A RECENT meeting sponsored by Ohio University student affiliates of the American Chemical Society, L. C. Harrick, research director for the Nelsonville Coal Products Company told his listeners that "enough oil can be extracted from the oil shale beneath Ohio's surface to last the United States for more than 2,000 years." The statement was made in answer to expressed fears that the nation's petroleum resources might soon be exhausted. Mr. Larrick is the author of many articles on the subject that he discussed, and served on a committee appointed by President Herbert Hoover while he, Mr. Harrick, was associated with the U. S. Bureau of Mines. He holds many patents on the use of oil shale. The speaker expressed the opinion that an opportunity exists for a new and large scale industry in the Hocking Valley.

A GROWING INTEREST in Russia and China is evidenced by the response of students to Russian and Chinese, the two newest language courses to be introduced at Ohio University.

Admiral Louis de Steiguer Dies at Naval Hospital

Admiral Louis Rudolph de Steiguer, U.S.N., (retired), onetime Commander-in-Chief of the Battle Fleet, died April 19 at the Bethesda Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md., after a brief illness. He was 80 years of age.

A graduate of the Naval Academy in the Class of 1889, Admiral de Steiguer held all ranks in the Navy from ensign up, retiring as full admiral in 1935. He won medals in the Spanish-American War as an ensign, and commanded the battleship Arkansas with distinction during World War I. Serving with the British at Scapa Flow, he won the Distinguished Service Medal.

Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer

Under President Coolidge, Admiral de Steiguer was given the top naval sea-going assignment as Commander-in-Chief of the Battle Fleet. At the time of his retirement, he was serving as commandant of the Third Naval District and the New York Navy Yard.

Admiral de Steiguer was a pioneer in the field of naval fire control. At the time he entered the Navy, the science of gunnery was in its infancy, and his inventions are credited in Navy circles with having made considerable contribution to the development of present-day standards.

Admiral de Steiguer was born and reared in Athens, the son of Judge Rudolph de Steiguer and Mary Carpenter de Steiguer. He was almost ready to graduate from Ohio University when he received his appointment to the Naval Academy, at the age of 18. The appointment was made by Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor, of Athens, then a member of Congress.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon the distinguished Navy man by Ohio University in 1931.

Admiral de Steiguer was the great-grandson of Baron de Steiguer, who emigrated from Switzerland in 1819 and located in Canaan Township. Baron de Steiguer brought with him from Europe a colony composed of the families of Stalder, Finsterwald, Junod, Overholzer, Koker, Weiss and Stoffer. Descendants of each of these families still reside in Athens County and many of them are graduates or former students of Ohio University.

The admiral is survived by his widow, Katharine Constable de Steiguer, of Washington, D. C., where she, and her late husband, have been residents for the last nine years.

Admiral de Steiguer was buried on April 21 in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors.

Names of Two More Ohioans Added to Gold Star Roster

Two men who were last reported to readers of The Alumnus as "missing in action" in World War II are now classified as dead in Navy Department records, bringing to 218 the total number of names on Ohio University's Gold Star Roster.

Lt. (j.g.) Howard B. Duff, Jr., '42, Ridley Park, Pa., a Navy fighter pilot, was killed in action in the Southwest Pacific on or near June 12, 1944. The Ohican, with ten other fighters, was engaged in a strafing mission when his plane was shot down by an attacking force of 30 Jap "Zekes."

Lt. (j.g.) Bernard A. Gallagher, '42, Cambridge, missing since Aug. 5, 1945, is presumed to have met death while participating in a night bombing attack on Jap torpedo boats off the coast of Japan.

Lt. Gallagher was a member of a patrol bombing squadron attached to Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet. He was the husband of the former Ellen Ries, '43, now Mrs. James B. Jolley, Lansing, Mich.

Hallgarten Music Award Won by Louise Rose

Louise Rose, '43 (Mrs. Andar Toth), a music student in New York City, was signally honored recently when she was selected to receive the Hallgarten Award.

Only one singer has ever won this outstanding recognition before; Suzanne Fisher, of the Metropolitan Opera. The terms of the award provide that the recipient may study with any teacher of his or her choice in New York City and the grant is continuous as long as the student shows progress.

Louise Rose

Miss Rose (who is carrying on her professional career under her maiden name) elected to study with Queena Mario, formerly of the Metropolitan and now a teacher in the Juilliard Graduate School of Music. Her studies under the former "Met" soprano are private and include operatic roles and coaching. Miss Rose graduated from Juilliard last June where she studied for three years under Evan Evans. At Ohio University she was a student of Helen Hedden Roach in the School of Music.

The young singer's marriage (see page 22) was an event of last September. Her husband, of Hungarian lineage, is an instructor in violin at Juilliard. He has toured widely with the Gordon String Quartet, and is manager of the Spring Festival of Chamber Music at Albuquerque, N. Mex. The Toths are in the Southwest at the present time.

Ohio Mathematician Expresses Views

By RALPH STONE SMITH,
Director of Publicity, Ohio University

DR. ROBERT L. MORTON, professor of education at Ohio University, deplors the lack of stress put on the study of arithmetic in elementary schools by "progressive teachers."

Speaking April 15 in the final address of the 1946-47 faculty lecture series at Ohio University, Dr. Morton said he found evidence of the failure of teachers in progressive schools to make numbers and the processes with numbers meaningful.

A member of Ohio University's faculty since 1918 and the author of several mathematics textbooks which are used in the U. S. and abroad, Dr. Morton spoke to students, faculty members, and townspeople in Edw. Watts Chubb Library. His topic was "Trends in American Education."

"Not a few progressive teachers make the serious mistake of assuming an adequate arithmetic program can be provided through the use of what is sometimes called the 'method of incidental learning,' supplemented by a period for so-called 'skills and drills,'" he declared.

This skills and drills period, Dr. Morton explained, is used to develop in pupils the arithmetical skills necessary for successfully coping with the quantitative aspects of experience.

"The result in one school that I know of was the conclusion that no place need be made for arithmetic in the first six grades. In another school, the equally startling conclusion was reached that no provision need be made for arithmetic after the sixth grade."

But Dr. Morton, who attended school when the three R's were taught, would not return to the "good old days."

"Although an occasional patron of the school of today deplors the modern 'fads and frills' and longs for the good old times of the three R's and rigid discipline, I know of no serious student of education who would endorse in any particular the kind of program which I have experienced."

Recalling his school days "characterized by textbook assignments by pages, memorization of names, dates, places, numbers, rules and definitions," and "primitive forms of punishment," Dr. Morton stated:

"There is little benefit in attempting to learn that which one does not understand. Interest is a far more effective stimulant than the rod of the stern rule. Children are human beings and as such hardly can be denied the movement and the freedom which characterizes worthy activities."

In attempting to compare the progressive with the old-fashioned curriculum, the speaker expressed the belief that neither method does what it is reasonable to expect a school to accomplish.

"In the old-fashioned school much of the learning was rote (memory) learning. That most rote learning is a waste of time, few will deny.

"The old time teachers whom we criticize most severely made two serious mistakes so far as their teaching activities were concerned. They failed to relate the school program to life in the world in which the pupils lived and they failed to make numbers and processes with numbers meaningful.

The first of these failures, Dr. Morton pointed out, represented a violation of the social criterion, while the second represented a violation of the psychological criterion.

The typical progressive school avoids the first of these failures but is guilty of the second, he asserted.

"Time after time, I find evidence of the failure of teachers in progressive schools to make numbers and the processes with numbers meaningful."

Citing an example of the progressive system, Dr. Morton told of an Ohio University sophomore girl who said:

"When I was in the grades, they were having some kind of an argument about arithmetic so we had arithmetic only once a week.

I never really learned anything about fractions, decimals, or percents."

Then there was the case of a progressive professor, he related, who told his class that "as to arithmetic, Oh well! You can pick up all you need of that as you go along."

As a committee chairman of the Ohio College Association, Dr. Morton has had for the past nine years the responsibility of preparing and distributing to high school seniors in Ohio 50,000 copies annually of the booklet "Looking Toward College."

He has spoken at educational meetings in more than half the states of the nation and on approximately 40 campuses. His field of interest is mathematics, and he is the author of several texts, including "Teaching Arithmetic in the Primary Grades," which has been widely used since 1927. His books on the teaching of mathematics are being used in other countries as well as throughout the U. S.

Dr. Robert L. Morton

Alumni Chapter Activity Resuming

A NUMBER of meetings of organized alumni groups have been held during April and May. The brief accounts of these fine meetings do not do them justice or give credit to scores of persons whose hard work helped put them over. Space limitations, however, make a more complete coverage impossible.

The officers of several chapters which have not resumed activity since the war have given assurance that the ball will be started rolling again in their bailiwicks before another year rolls around.

Akron Chapter

Sixty-six members of the Akron chapter, with some parents of students now on the campus, met for dinner, April 12, at the new quarters of the Woman's City Club.

Dr. Paul E. Belcher, '22, vice-president and cashier of the First National Bank of Akron, spoke on "Current Economic Trends." Mr. George A. Banks, '29, of the Ohio University Fund, was a guest and spoke briefly.

In the absence of the president, Morris Rabin, '36, who had moved to Cleveland, the program was presided over by Rhys D. Evans, '09, Ohio University trustee. The singing of university songs was directed by W. H. "Bid" Edmund, '28.

New officers elected for the coming year were: President, Karl H. Schmidt, '41; vice-president, Leavitt N. Gard, '32; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Fred Jennings (Nadine Michael, '24). The retiring secretary is Mrs. Earl O. Wright (Alice Edwards, '27).

Franklin County Chapter

The annual meeting and banquet of the Franklin County chapter was held April 17 in the Gold Room of the Fort Hayes Hotel in Columbus. The attendance closely approached the 100 mark.

President John C. Baker of the university was the speaker. Accompanying him from the campus were Dean Evan R. Collins of the College of Education, Associate Fund Director Banks, the Alumni Secretary, Miss Estelle Krupnick, Newark, N. J., and Robert W. Price, Logan.

Miss Krupnick contributed much to the pleasure of the evening by playing two violin solos, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Price. Both are School of Music majors. The toastmaster was Carlisle O. Dollings, '25.

Francis E. Fuller, '22, was elected president of the chapter to succeed the late H. J. Finsterwald, '22, who died early this spring. Other new officers are: Vice-president, Mrs.

adjournment, but it was voted to defer a final decision in the matter until a roundup of men to be held in May.

The outgoing president, Ruth Duncan, '22, 2-yr., presided. Chairman of the committee on arrangements for the April meeting was Amy Eldridge, '15x.

The annual election brought to office the following: President, Gertrude Starr, '39; vice-president, Ruth Kindler, '46; secretary, Marian Wiles, '31; treasurer, Mrs. Myrtle Johnston Coombs, '25, 2-yr.; and historian, Sue Molnar, '40.

Steubenville Chapter

The twenty-ninth annual dinner of the Steubenville, long known as the Eastern Ohio, chapter was held at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Steubenville, on May 1. This is the oldest chapter organization in the Alumni Association.

Dr. George W. Starcher, '26, acting dean of University College, and the Alumni Secretary were guests from the campus of the more than 50 Ohioans present. Fred Lee Tom, '14, an Athenian known to hundreds of alumni, was another guest on this occasion.

The after-dinner program opened with a tap dance by a local young lady which was followed by a quartet of alumnae singing O. U. songs. The vocal foursome was composed of Frances Stevens, '42x, Edith Stein, Augusta Hornbrook, '33, and Edith Wilson, '40. They were accompanied by Mrs. Leola Case Everson, '24, 2-yr.

Movies, in color, of the 1946 Homecoming Float Parade were shown by Jane Porter, '46.

After Dean Starcher's address, during which he told of the program to develop scholarship and of the new course in human relations, Mr. Tom sang three solos and lead the group in the singing of "Alma Mater, Ohio."

Peggy Bair, '40, outgoing president, was the presiding officer. Geneva Herve, '40, has been the chapter secretary during the past year. New

Alumni Memorial Auditorium

Walter J. Shapter (Margaret Durrett, '19); secretary, Robert E. Rucker, '14, succeeding himself; and treasurer, Herbert W. Bash, '17.

Youngstown Women

Approximately 100 alumni, with a few mothers of current undergraduates, heard President Baker tell of plans for the future of Ohio University and problems of the present day at a dinner of the Ohio University Women's Club of Youngstown held April 26 at the Y.W.C.A. A number of Ohio U. men of the Youngstown area were present upon invitation of the alumnae.

Mr. Banks and the Alumni Secretary were other guests of the Youngstown women at the last of the four meetings held during the past year.

A musical feature of the evening's program were tenor solos by Thomas Prosser, accompanied by Mrs. Novello Jones Freedman. The musicians were non-Ohioans.

A proposal for organizing a men's club was discussed briefly following officers; President, Mrs. R. J. Walter (Lucille Ormsby, '44); vice-president, Harold H. Buch, '26; secretary, Jane Porter; and treasurer, Mrs. V. B. Wolff (Eileen Buchanan, '43).

Ross County Chapter

Some sixty Ross Countians met for dinner at the Warner Hotel, Chillicothe, on May 3. The dinner program was followed immediately by the Spring "Prom," at the Elks Club, of the students of the Ohio University Branch at Chillicothe.

Campus guests at both the alumni party and the student dance were Dean of Women Irma E. Voigt; Director of Branches Albert C. Gubitz and Mrs. Gubitz; Prof. T. N. Hoover, '08, university historian; O. U. Fundman George A. Banks; and Alumni Secretary Clark E. Williams and Mrs. Williams. Director Gubitz and Dean Voigt were the principal speakers of the occasion.

Chapter President Josef E. Clark, '35, presented the man who had been voted the outstanding student at O.U.-C., and an attractive plaque was presented to the principal of the high school from which he graduated, the plaque to be retained by the high school until the annual dinner next year.

Other O.U.-C. guests of the chapter who were presented by President Clark were the Prom Queen and her court of five co-eds, together with their escorts.

Because of the removal from Chillicothe of the last elected secretary, Mrs. Gladys Hereford, '37, served as a substitute in that position. Officers elected for the coming year were Mrs. W. H. Brandle (Jean Talbott, '15, 2-yr.), president; Mrs. Hereford, vice-president; Helen N. Waldon, '35, secretary; and Mrs. Hoyt Parker (Marjorie Vollmar, '30), treasurer.

Cleveland Bobcats

A six-meeting program for 1946-47 was concluded May 13 with a dinner at Cleveland's Hotel Carter at which Dr. W. J. Smith, of the history department, was the guest speaker from the campus. Out of his experiences during 21 years in the Far East, Dr. Smith talked on "China, Today and Tomorrow."

The Bobcats' annual business meeting and election of officers was held at this time. A report of the election will appear in the next issue.

Because of a serious eye ailment and operation President Heber Mc-Farland was unable to attend the final meeting of his very successful administration.

The "Cuyahoga County Bobcat Award" of $25 made annually to a person from among the five highest-ranking (scholastically) freshman men enrolled in the university from Cuyahoga County was made, at the Honors Day Convocation on the campus, May 14, to Leonard A. Scatter, University Heights, who had a 3.6 average.

Cleveland Women

The Tea with which the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland, oldest of the alumnae groups,

THIS COULD BE YOUR ALMA MATER

I want to go back to my college town
And roam the old streets once more;
Back to the realm of cap and gown
And delve in the classic lore.
I want to return to an ivied wall
And hear an old chapel bell;
To stroll thru a certain musty hall
And sniff of its musty smell.
I want to sit down in a certain chair
In a mellow classroom old,
And recall the professor of dignified air
And some of the stories he told.
I want to shake hands with a certain friend
And look at an ancient elm;
They symbolize things that never end
And both are still at the helm.
Yes, I want to go back to my college town
For I've found whenever I do,
That the place picks me up when I am down,
Though the rest of the world makes me blue!
—Chicago Tribune

annually winds up its program for the year was held at the Central Y.W.C.A., Sunday afternoon, May 18. Dean Voigt was the special guest and speaker.

Pouring at opposite ends of an attractively-appointed tea table were Marian Whitsey, '18, and Mrs. John S. Algeo (Ann Roush, '29x).

Blanche Robinson, '16, club president, who was re-elected to the office for the coming year, presided over the brief business session and introduced the speaker.

Ruth Ellen Lindsey, '41, is the retiring secretary. Her successor is Eleanor Morrow, '33. Also elected at the May meeting were: Mrs. Lewis Hughes (Leona Hughes, '30), 1st vice-president; and Mrs. Ralph E. Gordon (Eleanor Wilson, '28), treasurer.

Dayton Chapter

A meeting of Dayton alumni will be held on May 23 at the call of Dean E. Baesel, '42, and an active committee of associates to effect a reorganization of the Dayton chapter, which, like a number of other chapter organizations, has not functioned since the war years.

The campus visitors on this occasion will be Prof. A. C. Gubitz, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Williams.

Detroit Chapter

On the following night, May 24, the same group of campus men will meet with the Detroit chapter at the annual dinner to be held at the Engineers' Club in the Rackham Building. John R. Horn, '22, is president of the Detroiters' organization.

Reports on both the Dayton and Detroit meetings will appear in the June Alumnus. Plans are under way for meetings during the spring or early summer in Canton, Washington, D. C., and San Francisco, Calif.

Adventure in Internationalism

(Continued from page 4)

Russia disagrees with the western powers on four major issues in allocating military force to the United Nations, the visiting speaker said. He listed the main points of disagreement as:

1. Contributions of armed forces.
2. Time limit for withdrawal of forces after suppression of aggression.
3. Location and listing of operational bases.
4. Location of military contingents in normal times.

The snag in regard to military contributions had to do with the size of forces each of the Big Five nations should contribute. The Soviet Union contended, Sir Guy said, that every member of the Big Five, including Russia, Britain, China, France and the U. S., should make identical contributions to the UN forces. The other powers maintained that because of varied strength in different services in the five nations, contributions should be comparable.

The English and American officers traveled to Parkersburg by car where their Army transport plane, a DC 3, was waiting to take them back to New York. The plane was obtained by Colonel Allen from the U. S. Army Air Force, and its insignia of four stars on the fuselage indicated the rank of its distinguished passenger, Sir Guy Garrod, who as an Air Chief Marshal is the equivalent of a full general in the army.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By RALPH STONE SMITH

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S football candidates, operating from the T formation for the first time, climaxed their six-week spring practice sessions Apr. 26 with a full-length game in which the Grays eked out a 7-6 win over the Greens.

Twelve lettermen, half of them backfield men, donned moleskins for the intra-squad game, the first time a 60-minute gridiron fray had been scheduled at the end of a spring training period.

Coach Harold E. Wise, who has replaced the single wing with the more deceptive T, used 65 men in the game who had "looked good" during the workouts. Approximately 50 of them will be invited out for fall practice.

"It will be no exception to see passes and laterals flying through the air on any down next fall," Wise said in expressing himself as pleased with the showing made by the footballers in inaugurating use of the T.

Bobby Mills of Athens, quarterback for the Gray eleven, uncorked a long pass to Halfback Bill Beckley, also of Athens, in the third period for a touchdown. Center Ken Weiss of Cleveland converted.

Ed Sudnick of Cleveland, right half for the Green team, went 61 yards for a TD in the third stanza after taking a flat pass from Quarterback Chris Stefan of Dayton. The kick was wide.

Sitting on the sidelines were four more lettermen who were excused from practice to take part in other sports. Regulars on the baseball team are King Brady of Yakima, Wash., flashy triple-threat man named last fall on the Associated Press' All-Ohio team as first choice at halfback:

STARTING LINEUPS

GREEN		GRAY
Marco	LE	Risser
Hixon	LT	Moorehead
Loughridge	LG	Tartaglia
Mitchell	C	Laterza
Borgman	RG	DiBartolo
Trautwein	RT	Hess
Millsbaugh	RE	Hamm
Stefan	QB	Mills
Schultz	LH	Beckley
Sudnick	RH	Taylor
Hodona	FB	Wielgos

Tackle Gene Ruskowski of Cleveland (South High); and Scatback Ralph Sayre of New Haven, W. Va. End Ed Zednik, Cleveland (West Tech), was a member of the wrestling team.

For the names of other spring trainees, see page 14.

Diamond Team Faring Well

Ohio University has a good baseball team. As proof, the record shows the Bobcats have won 12 out of 18 starts with the schedule three-fourths completed. Five games have been rained out.

In Mid-American Conference play the Green and White diamondmen are on top of the ladder with three victories and one defeat.

To win ball games good pitching is essential. That's where Mark Wylie of Gibsonville comes into the picture with six victories and only two defeats.

Don Poling of Lancaster, with three wins and two losses, and John Jurkovic of Canton with a couple of triumphs against one trouncing, are the other twirlers largely responsible for the good showing Ohio has made to date.

Hitting the horsehide for an average of .300 or better are Centerfielder King Brady of Yakima, Wash.; Third Baseman Mel Clark of New Haven, W. Va.; Second Baseman Charley Horn of Crooksville, and First Baseman Bill Brooks of Carbondale.

The Bobcats opened their regular season with a 6-3 loss to Ohio State after returning from the Southern training trip in which they won four out of six frays.

Lefty Jurkovic then let the Akron Goodyear club down with four hits and struck out 11 batters as Ohio won 1-0.

But the following day the Bobcats lost to the Akron baseballers by 10-2 as Ohio made six errors. Jerry Kaufman of Cleveland was charged with the loss.

Ohio got 10 hits and capitalized on eight unearned runs in the second inning to defeat West Virginia 11-7. Wylie was the winning twirler. The Bobcats again trimmed the West

Pitcher Mark Wylie

Virginians the following day by 7-5. Poling allowed only three hits.

Rightfielder Larry Flor of Powhatan Point and Brooks hit for the circuit as Ohio clouted out a 19-1 win over Marietta. The Bobcats amassed 23 hits and Wylie had no trouble in winning.

Ohio opened competition in the loop by taking a couple of games from Western Reserve. The Bobcats got 14 hits in the first fray to win 9-7 as Wylie let the Clevelanders down with nine blows. Despite making a triple play, Western Reserve lost the second tilt by 5-3. Poling was the winning hurler.

Wylie got revenge for the early season loss to Ohio State by limiting the Bucks to five safeties in the return game and won by 2-1.

The Bobcats failed to hit in the clutch and dropped a 2-1 tilt to Xavier, snapping their six-game winning streak. Wylie was charged with the defeat although he held Xavier to five hits.

Ohio won its third conference game by trouncing Butler 12-4. The Indianapolis baseballers made seven errors. Wylie was the winning pitcher, giving up 10 hits while his mates got nine.

Butler came back to win the second game of the series 7-3, hanging out 12 hits off the offerings of Poling, the losing hurler, and Jurkovic.

Regular season contests with Cincinnati, Miami and Marietta were rained out.

Trackers Breaking Even To Date

The Bobcat track team opened the season Apr. 19 with a crushing 70-43 victory over Western Reserve in a Mid-American Conference dual meet in Cleveland.

Coach Roy Pille's thinclads, however, were defeated in Ohio Stadium the next weekend 83-23 to 43-13 by Bowling Green.

Then on May 3 the Ohio U. cindermen scored an upset 62-50 win over Cincinnati at Athens in another loop encounter.

The fourth dual meet on May 10 was lost to Pittsburgh there by 87-23 to 43-13. Remaining meets scheduled are the Mid-American at Detroit May 24, Ohio Wesleyan there May 29, and the Ohio Intercollegiate Invitational at Delaware June 7.

Fred Schleicher of Cleveland was high point Bobcat against Western Reserve, winning the shot put and discus. Harry Cox of Danville, Ill., took first in the 220-yard dash and placed second in the 100-yard dash. Ohio won seven firsts and 10 seconds.

Against Bowling Green the Bobcats won four events. Ed Mazzocco of Cleveland won the two-mile run in 10:12.4, only 20 seconds slower than the track record. Richard Mills of Lakewood copped the 880-yard run. Ray Johnston of Canton won the 440 and Jay Pinson of Wheelersburg took the broad jump.

The Bobcats racked up seven firsts and tied for another against Cincinnati. Cox took firsts in the 100-yard and 200-yard dashes for high scoring honors. Pinson won the broad jump and Johnston the 440.

William Hillyard of Cleveland, who took first in the pole vault against Western Reserve, repeated in the Bearcat meet. Bill Cowden of Lakewood tied for first in the 120-yard high hurdles and Fred Burnham of Strongsville won the 120-yard low hurdles.

With Johnston as anchor man, Ohio won the mile relay and the match in 3:31.1. Mills, Dallas Ensmann of Austinburg and Seeman Rose of Erie, Pa., were the other three men running the mile relay.

The only running event annexed by Ohio at Pittsburgh was the 440 which Johnston won. However, the World War II veteran, for 90% of the group is made up of former servicemen.

The disabilities which prevent the men from engaging in regular physical activity classes range from back injuries to respiratory diseases. Leg and knee injuries are most frequent, accounting for 36 of those taking adapted activities, Trepp stated.

Ott is especially enthusiastic about swimming, because he is "learning a skill and also developing my muscles and loosening up this knee." When first stricken with the infection in his right hip, he couldn't use his right leg and later had four operations.

Now he limps only slightly and has no difficulty holding down a part-time job at the Student Grill. Ott plans to be a teacher of high school mathematics and science.

Trepp said volleyball and softball are the most popular group sports taught in the adapted activities program. Other sports are fencing, tennis, golf, archery, horseshoes, and badminton.

Special remedial exercises also are given, some of the participants in the program using apparatus such as pulleys, weights, rowing machines, and shoulder wheels. Three amputees are being given water therapy treatment.

First Team Since 1939

Paced by Dick Flockenzier of Mansfield, Ohio University's golf team has won three of its first six matches. This is the first year since 1939 that Ohio has competed in intercollegiate golf.

Shooting a two under par 69, Flockenzier led the Bobcats to an 8-1-2 to 7-1-2 victory over Kent State. Ohio's inexperienced golfers also won from Marietta by 8-4 and from Miami by 10-1-2 to 9-1-2.

The Green and White linkmen, coached by Kermit Blosser, lost a pair of matches to Akron Goodyear by 7-5 and 7-1-2 to 4-1-2. Wayne defeated Ohio by 17-1-2 to 9-1-2. A triangular meet with Cincinnati and Xavier was rained out.

Students Taking Workout in Adapted Activities

Bobcats grabbed firsts in four other events: High jump—Lawrence Liewing of New Haven, W. Va.; broad jump—Bill Kuhner of Jackson; pole vault—Hillyard; and discus—Schleicher.

Adapted Activities Program

Robert Ott of Baltic sings the praises of Ohio University's adapted activities program in physical welfare.

A victim of osteomyelitis (bone infection) at the age of 11, Ott was on crutches five years. But now, a freshman in college, he is fast learning to swim by taking part in the program directed by Joseph Trepp, associate professor of physical welfare.

This semester 152 men are enrolled in the adapted activities classes, which were organized so that students might be rehabilitated, learn a sports skill, and "have some fun," said Trepp. The activities taught are "adapted to the abilities and physical limitations of the individuals" under the direction of the University Health Service physician.

Ott is one of the few men taking part in the program who is not a

Dramatics Majors Produce Show in New York Theater

An ambition which took form in the minds of several Ohio University dramatics majors while working together, in University Theater productions in Ewing Hall was realized in New York City early in April. Their hope was that they all might be together in the nation's metropolis one day and all act in the same play.

Pooling their finances as well as their talent, they organized an experimental dramatics workshop, leased the Greenwich Village Mews Playhouse and, on April 7 and 8, produced a play, "Laura," under the direction of James H. Dyas, '46.

So successful were the young actors in their production that one of them was shortly thereafter given a contract for summer work, while others are expecting similar results from their efforts.

The play, originally from the pens of Vera Caspary and George Sklar, is a rewritten footlight version of the Gene Tierney film success, "Laura." Although Miriam Hopkins and Otto Kruger briefly toured in the murder mystery play last season, it never reached New York. The ambitious Ohio thespians took advantage of that omission by boldly inviting Manhattan critics to inspect their version during its two-day run.

Jimmie Dyas, as previously indicated, was the director of the profit-sharing enterprise. His training at Ohio University was interrupted by the war, in which he played an important but unpublished part. Two weeks before the D-Day invasion of France, Jimmie, trained as an O.S.S. agent, was parachuted into France to organize the Maquis for the big showdown. He finished his degree work at the university last year and immediately headed for Broadway.

The other Ohioans in the play, most of whom, like Dyas, are studying drama at the New York School of Research, were Dale Engle, '43; Janice Halliday, '44; Gene Dybvig, '47; Al Fiering, '46; Dorothy Lee "Tommie" Tompkins, '43, who had the title role; Louis Baumgartner, '44, and Jack Engel, '47.

Other Ohio University graduates who are now in New York assisted the group by attending rehearsals, giving criticism, and loaning properties and costume materials. Among these friendly critics were Nelle

Foster, '42; Alice Mastny, '45; Sara Mae Endich, '44; Louise Rose, '43; Milton Moskowitz, '42; Peter Miller,

Director Jimmie Dyas

'46; Edwin Nagel, '44, and Mrs. Nagel (Diane Sharfe, '46x); and Robert Wesley, '44x.

Spring Training Squad Is Largest in Grid History

From a record total of 135 men who turned out for spring football the 65 men picked to participate in the wind-up game included four quarterbacks, 12 halfbacks, five fullbacks, six centers, 12 guards, 14 tackles and 12 ends.

Quarterbacks: Lettermen Chris Stefan of Dayton (Oakwood) and Bobby Mills of Athens. Others—Carl Melzer of Lakewood and Stan Zylowski of Cleveland (Lincoln).

Halfbacks: Lettermen Duke Bitler, Rocky River; Ed Sudnick, Cleveland (South); and Milt Taylor, Columbus (Academy). Others—Bill Beckley, Athens; Jim Bell, Columbus (West); Emmett Burley, Zanesville; Kenneth Coe, Wintersville; Ed Guccio, Cleveland (Holy Name); Joe Neds, Worthington; Walter Schultz and John Stoffer of Cleveland (John Marshall); and Charles Stanley, Pomeroy.

Fullbacks: Letterman Dick Hodona of Cleveland (John Marshall). Others—Bill Alexander, Marianna, Pa.; Dan Cavanaugh, Athens; Marvin Spidel, Uniontown; and Jim Wielgos, Lorain.

Centers: John S. Mitchell of Can-

June Commencement Near

(Continued from page 5)

will be ready for occupancy this fall.

Other sights of interest to alumni will be Cutler Hall, now undergoing complete restoration to its early-period appearance; the Lower Campus upon which are living 410 single veteran students; the University Apartments on East State Street which provide accommodations for some 96 married veterans and their families; the University Airport on the east edge of the city on U. S. Route 50, and the site on University Terrace, opposite the Auditorium, of the new Men's Dormitory, the construction of which is now under way.

ton (Lincoln) who lettered at half. Others—Tony Laterza, Akron (St. Vincent); Lyle Madison, Rocky River, Bill O'Dell, Philo; Dave Shaw, Cambridge; and Ken Weiss, Cleveland (East).

Guards: Lettermen Del Borgman, Cleveland (East Tech); Dick DiBartolo, Cleveland (Shaw); and John Loughridge, Rushsylvania. Others—Arthur Guhde, Cleveland (Collinwood); Joe Kennedy, Athens; Maurice Maddock, Cleveland (Shaw); Nick Mihalik, Toronto; Remo Norton, Columbus (Central); Paul Sauder, Mansfield; John White, Canton (Lincoln); Robert Palko, Euclid (Shore); and Frank Tartaglia, Cleveland (Shaw).

Tackles: Lettermen Fred Hall, Lakewood, and Bill Trautwein, Athens. Others—Tom Anderson, Canton (Lehman); Art DePompei, Bedford; George Dunn, Toledo (Waite); John Hess, Columbus (South); Floyd Hixon, Adena; Al Koran, Cleveland (John Marshall); Charles Koryda, Bellaire; Bruce Morehead, Bremen; Walter Wagner, Lorain; George Williams, Canton (Lincoln); Harold Winkle, Cleveland (John Marshall); and Pete Yanity, Athens.

Ends: John Bara, Elyria; Paul Farley, Athens; Mike Gosiorowski, Cleveland (South); Bob Hamm, Pomeroy; John Marco, Marion (Harding); Allan Millsbaugh, Cleveland (John Marshall); John A. Mitchell, Parkersburg, W. Va.; James Petrie, Akron (Buchtel); Herbert Rath, Cleveland (Rhodes); Pete Rissler, Ashland; Wayne Rittenhouse, Dayton (Fairview); and Gene Williams, Portsmouth (East).

Dean Voigt Honored With Luncheon at Columbus Meet

Twenty-eight former student deans and members of the dean of women's staff at Ohio University honored Dean Irma E. Voigt with a luncheon in Columbus Sunday, March 30, 1947.

The reunion was part of the program of the National Association of Deans of Women annual conference held in Columbus that weekend. A former president of this national organization, Dean Voigt presided at the formal convention banquet.

Mary Jane Stevenson, '39, dean of women at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., and Margaret Osgood, former assistant dean of women at Ohio University and now administrative assistant to the president of the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, were in charge of arrangements.

Attending the luncheon from Athens were Mrs. Sara Long Jones, '24, assistant to the dean of women; Lois Fri, '41, secretary to the dean; Theresa Heiser, '36, a former secretary to Dean Voigt; Louise Field, assistant dean of women; Marguerita Steffenson, head resident of Howard Hall; Mrs. Ned Bixler (Janice Battin, '26), head resident of Boyd Hall; Mrs. Margaret Keehne Davis, '32, A.M. '38, director of dining halls; and Mrs. Roger Connor, '35.

Participating in the program were Dorothy Reece, '40, toastmistress, now with the Navy Department in Washington, D. C.; Margaret Wilson, '40, assistant dean of women at the University of Indiana; Ruth Long, '23, dean of girls, Chaney High School, Youngstown; Dean Stevenson, and Mrs. Jones.

In addition to the many beautiful "bouquets for the living," Dean Voigt was presented with a corsage of gardenias and a sterling silver vegetable dish as a "token of love and appreciation" for the intangible values of her influence over the years.

During April 14-19, Dean Voigt, Miss Genevieve Apgar, Mrs. Long, and Dr. Edith Wray represented the Athens Branch of the American Association of University Women at the annual conference of the national organization in Dallas, Texas. Dean Voigt is a former regional director of the A.A.U.W.

An A.A.U.W. fellowship, valued at $1,500 and honoring the Ohio University dean, is known as the Irma E. Voigt International Study Grant. The young woman holding this fellowship, Miss Aslang Aanensen of Norway, is now pursuing study in child psychology at Oberlin College.

Pittsburgh Clergyman Writes Book on Life of A Minister

Dr. Hodge M. Eagelson

The Rev. Dr. Hodge MacIvaine Eagelson, '16, minister for the past six years of the Mary S. Brown Memorial Church in Pittsburgh, Pa., is the author of a book, "Laughing Into Glory," brought out on April 28 by George W. Stewart, Publisher, Inc., of New York City.

The book is the May selection of the Religious Book Club and it will be digested in the July issue of Omnibook.

"Laughing Into Glory" has been described as a "chuckling, heart-warming story of a young minister among his stumbling flock. A panorama of village life with a background of colorful characters whose lives intermingle with the local parson, highpointed with pranks and eccentricities."

The Pittsburgh clergyman's father, grandfather, and great-grandfather were Presbyterian ministers, the last named having been a corporal in "Washington's Irregulars." In a not too-serious autobiography Dr. Eagle son failed to disclose how he came to depart from the faith of his (Presbyterian) fathers.

While serving a pastorate at Whit-

Shulman Writes Book While Studying for Ph.D. Degree

As scheduled by Doubleday & Company, New York publishers, the novel, "The Amboy Dukes," written by Irving R. Shulman, '37, came off the press last month.

The novel appeared in condensed form in the January issue of Book Reader and was given an excellent notice by Edwin Fadiman, Jr., in the New York Times Book Review.

Author Shulman is an associate in the English department of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., where he is working on his doctorate.

"In the 'Amboy Dukes,'" states Mr. Fadiman, "Mr. Shulman illumines the problem of juvenile delinquency during our hectic war years. His style is fervid, yet terse; his understanding genuine. He writes not to shock, but to clarify . . . there are many passages and scenes of memorable power. He has combined the sociologist's research with the writer's art."

The Amboy Dukes is the name of a Brooklyn slum gang which was "too young for the service, too tough for school, and too mean to work." Frank Goldfarb, 16, was a member of this gang.

"The theme of Mr. Shulman's book," the Times reviewer writes, "is Frank's unequal fight against a society superior to him in power and organization. From the moment when he and his friend, Benny, accidentally kill their teacher, until Frank's death at the hands of 'Crazy' Sachs, the neighborhood moron, he runs a losing race with fate."

aker, Pa., during the depression years, Dr. Eagelson was instrumental in securing a hot meal daily for 360 grade school children over a two-year period; he leased a coal mine where some 40 men dug and gave away 6,000 truck loads of coal to the needy; and he organized a college for unemployed young people of his own and neighboring communities which had an enrollment of 720 students.

Dr. Eagelson's son, "Mac," is pastor of the California Avenue Methodist Church of Pittsburgh, while a daughter, Joanna Ruth, was enrolled at Ohio University during the first semester of the current year. There is another daughter, Lois.

Here and There Among the Alumni

1861

BISHOP EARL CRANSTON (see picture) was not only dean of the bishops of the Methodist Church at the time of his death in 1932, but was one of the church's most renowned leaders. At the age of 92 he was leading the movement which subsequently brought about a union of his church with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, thus healing a breach in ranks that had existed since 1845. He was elevated to the bishopric in 1896 and served in his office in Portland, Ore., Washington, D. C., and in

Bishop Earl Cranston
(See Class of 1861 Notes)

China. A Civil War captain, he was buried in Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia.

1870

DR. PHILIP ZENNER, Ohio University's oldest living graduate, was 95 years of age on May 17. A prominent physician and neurologist of Cincinnati, Dr. Zenner has not yet entirely retired from professional activities. Most afternoons find him at his downtown office where he serves as a medical consultant to some of his old friends and long-time patients. The Cincinnati is especially interested at the present time in two young friends and neighbors, Jean and Patricia Brown, twins and descendants of John Brown, famed Abolitionist and leader of the historic raid at Harper's Ferry, who are now enrolled as freshmen in Ohio University. The girls also trace their ancestry to Peter Brown, one of the "Pilgrim Fathers" who landed at Plymouth Rock in 1820.

1877

Had he lived, DR. JOHN H. CHARTER (see picture), for many years a promi-

In order that present-day Ohioans may know something of the lives and activities of those who preceded them to the campus, reference is made each month to one or more graduates who have long since passed from the earthly scene.—Editor.

nent physician in Indianapolis, Ind., would have been 98 years of age on May 3. On the anniversary, early this month, a son HOWARD L. CHARTER, '98X, who is associated with the mechanical staff of the New York Times, sent a check to the Ohio University Fund which he wished credited to the memory of his father. Dr. Charter died in Indianapolis on August 25, 1943, at the age of 94.

1904

"Like brother, like sister," shall we say. The recently announced list of seniors elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honor society, contains the name of ELIZABETH RILEY WOLFE, daughter of Mrs. GRACE REEDER RILEY, 2-yr., Athens, and of the late DWIGHT ALBAN RILEY, '11, 2-yr. Mrs. Wolfe, whose husband, WILLIAM B. WOLFE, is a student-veteran and senior at Ohio U., is the sister of LIEUT. DWIGHT A. RILEY, JR., '42, who won Phi Beta Kappa honors at Ohio University in his senior year and, in 1945, graduated at the head of his class at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. Lieut. Riley is now stationed in Munich, Germany, in the construction division of the Engineer's Corps.

1908

MADELINE SCHAEFFLER, 2-yr., is legal secretary in the offices of Pomerene & Burns, corporation attorneys in Coshocton. She is a sister of CHARLES H. SCHAEFFLER, '11, 2-yr., Cleveland; LEO SCHAEFFLER, '13, Chicago; and Mrs. Harry Barstow (GRETCHEN SCHAEFFLER, '18), Athens. Members of some of the older graduating classes will remember well the mother, "Mom" Schaeffler, of these Ohioans and her popular boarding club on University Terrace.

1910

Death has brought sorrow again to the home of O. V. YAW, 2-yr., and Mrs. Yaw, of Athens, this time through the loss of a son, Earl, who died of a heart attack in Abilene, Texas, while on his way to California. Two sons, John Milton Yaw and LEE YAW, '46, were killed in World War II, while two daughters, Marie and Joan, died some years ago. There are five children surviving, among them, EVELYN YAW, '42, secretary to the dean of University College at Ohio University, and ROBERT and ROY YAW now enrolled in the university as student-veterans.

1911

CHARLES H. BRYSON, at one time director of the Ohio University Alumni Memorial Auditorium fund campaign committee, is public relations counselor to the Ohio Good Roads Federation with headquarters in Columbus. He is an uncle of Mrs. James E. Householder (VIOLET COLLINS, '30) and of Mrs. Charles W. Reamer, Jr. (GREER COLLINS, '29, 2-yr.).

1913

DR. ROBERT L. MORTON, whose recent address in the Faculty Lecture Series is reviewed on page 9, is the husband of the former JEAN ADAMS, '14. Mrs. Morton is currently a member of the executive committee of the Ohio University Alumni Association. The Mortons have two daughters, Mrs. Frederic E. Webb (JEAN MORTON, '36), Athens,

Dr. John H. Charter
(See Class of 1877 Notes)

and Mrs. Herbert Kadison (MARY MORTON, '36), New York, N. Y.

MOSTYN L. "BUMP" JONES, who was for many years with the R. G. Dun organization in New York City, is now a resident of Columbus. He is a brother of OLWYN JONES, '25X, now on the music faculty at Ohio State University, and of Miss Marged Edith Jones, an instructor in piano at Ohio University from 1901 to 1914. The Columbus man, also, is an uncle of Ohio's Governor Thomas J. Herbert and of ELIZABETH J. HERBERT, '22, Cleveland.

1915

Mrs. Walter H. Brandle (JEAN TALBOTT, 2-yr.), new president of the Ross County alumni chapter, is the mother of PATIENCE BRANDLE, '42, New York City; Mrs. John D. Clark (JANET BRANDLE, '46), Athens; and of BILL and BOB, twins, both enrolled in Ohio University, the latter, a senior. The husband-father is a retail shoe dealer in Chillicothe.

1916

CARR LIGGETT, head of Carr Liggett Advertising, Inc., located in Cleveland's

NBC Building on Superior Ave., won second place this spring in WTAM's Annual Ohio Composer's Contest with a song, "Paolo Singing," which was arranged for orchestra and broadcast from the Cleveland radio station on Sunday, March 30. During the coming summer Mr. Liggett will spend his weekends and vacation period in Chautauqua, N. Y., with Mrs. Liggett (HAZEL THOMAS, '18) and their daughter, Marjorie, who will be summing at Chautauqua. Marjorie plans to enter Denison University this fall.

1917

On April 14 MARY H. KERR (see picture) became director of Guidance and Special Services for the Garfield Heights city schools after having been principal of Garfield Heights High School since 1931. Miss Kerr was one of the few women principals in the state to administer schools as large as her own. In her new position she will supervise the guidance program in the city schools, and co-ordinate the special services of the departments of child study, speech and hearing, health, and special education. Upon conclusion of her work as principal Miss Kerr was honored with an all-school assembly and with a banquet at which gifts were given her from the faculty, the school alumni association, the Garfield Heights veterans, and the student body. The new supervisor is a sister of ALEX C. KERR, '16, London, England. Associated with Miss Kerr in Garfield Heights is Mrs. FAITH WILLIAMS, '32, head of the department of special education. Mrs. Williams' program is a part of the state's mental health program and involves group and individual therapy.

Mary H. Kerr
(See Class of 1917 Notice)

1918

James R. Hays, Hartford, husband of Mrs. NELLE FISCHERWALD HAYS, died in a Cincinnati hospital on May 8 following a prolonged illness. Mr. Hays was a retired New York Central Railroad conductor.

1920

Mrs. Hannah Dulancy, mother of ELMA DULANCY KELLER, Columbus, died at the home of a son in Miami, Fla., on April 20. Mrs. Dulancy was in her late 80's, and had been in poor health for some time. Mrs. Keller is the wife of LAURENCE D. KELLER, '22, member of a prominent firm of accountants in Columbus.

1921

Announcement has been made by Malcolm R. Price & Co., Columbus realtors, of the appointment of GORDON K. BOLON as general manager of the residential sales department of this company. Mr. Bolon has been engaged in the real estate business in Columbus for the last 12 years, chiefly in the field of home sales and residential investment properties. With his wife and four children he resides at 2468 Elm Avenue, Columbus.

1922

Mrs. Ralph H. Schmidt (ELIZABETH EARHART), Cincinnati, a one-time instructor in the School of Music at Ohio University, was a weekend visitor in Athens late in April, attending the founder's day luncheon of her sorority and paying a visit to her son, Phillip, an Ohio University freshman. Mrs. Schmidt's husband is a salesman for the Senet-Solvay Coke Company. The Schmidts have two other children, a daughter, 17, and a son, 16.

1923

WILLIAM V. WALSH is personnel director for the City of Dallas, Texas. Before a period of war service he was a personnel officer for the Farm Security Administration in Dallas. He is a veteran of World Wars I and II. Bill and his wife have two sons, William, 15, and Terry, 10.

1924

NELLIE GLASS, who has headed the staffs of public libraries at Pomeroy and Gallipolis, is now head librarian at Montgomery, Ala. Miss Glass is a graduate of the Western Reserve University School of Library Science.

Mrs. Jurgan Kuczyński, the former MARGUERITE STEINFELD, with her husband, an author and economist, is now living at Klopstockstrasse 34, in Berlin (Zehlendorf West), Germany.

1925

H. DANA CHASE, accompanied by Mrs. Chase (JEAN ADAMS, '28x), were campus visitors last month, the former coming especially to be present for the initiation of a son, HOWARD DANA, JR., into the father's fraternity. Organizer and leader of the well-known Chase's Collegians dance orchestra in his campus days, Mr. Chase is now head of Dana Chase Publications in Chicago and editor and publisher of Finish magazine, leading trade publication in the vitreous enameling field. The Chase home is at Elmhurst, Ill.

1926

After spending the war years in Cleveland with the Fisher Aircraft Division of the General Motors Corp., FREDERICK L. BUXTON is back in Charleston, W.

Va., as territorial manager of the General Motors Acceptance Corp., a position he left to engage in the wartime activity. Manager Buxton is a son of Mrs. Frank Buxton (ELIA LOGAN, '88), Huntington, W. Va., and a brother of Mrs. R. P. Ashbaugh (BERTHA BUXTON, '13, 2-yr.), Westfield, N. J. GEORGE J. CAVANAUGH, '25, another GMAC man who was located in Charleston and went to Fisher Aircraft during the war, is now, like his colleague, Fred Buxton, back in Charleston.

1927

After eight years of highly successful professional activity with two of New York City's largest stores, ANNE SAUM has established her own business, at 20 W. 8th St., as a personnel training consultant. Miss Saum was staff training manager at Macy's for three years and was associated with Stern Brothers as employment manager for five years. In her new work Miss Saum will advise store training supervisors on how to increase sales production, step up efficiency, and cut down errors on the part of sales persons. The seriousness of the current change from customer buying to sales clerk selling has made stores keenly aware of their need for a better trained sales personnel. Miss Saum was director of the Ohio University Service Bureau for approximately 10 years following her graduation.

Mrs. Howard L. Hirsch
(See Matings)

Because of illness CLAIR L. RYAN-OLDS is closing a teaching career of 28 years early next month. She is a teacher in the seventh and eighth grades at Jettersen School in Elvira, a city in which she has done all but two years of her teaching.

1928

HEAD FOOTBALL COACH HAROLD E. AYER has recently received a note from one of his old friends, Geoffrey F. Morgan, a former member of the Ohio University faculty and superintendent of the Athens Public Schools. Harold was a member of the Presbyterian Sunday School class, the Mohicans, to which Mr. Morgan gave much time as a teacher and leader. After six years as manager of the Speakers Bureau of the Douglas Aircraft Co. in California, Mr. Morgan retired early this year on a pension. He indicated that he had no intention of leaving the lecture platform, however. On the contrary, he is already booked for an extended speaking tour of the Middle West beginning next September, when he will doubtless have an opportunity to make frequent contacts with his former students and associates in Ohio. The Californian is a veteran of the lecture platform.

1929

Among the April and May events attended by Ohio University alumni as representatives of their alma mater were the Centennial Ceremony of Rockford College, Rockford, Ill., by Mrs. J. F. Jackson (MARGARET CRUIKSHANK), a Rockford resident; the inauguration of a president of Connecticut College, New London, by LT. COMDR. JOHN PAUL JONES, '39, of the U. S. Submarine Base at New London; the inauguration of a president of Bradley University, Peoria, Ill., by HAROLD E. SMITH, '41, M.S. '42, a research chemist for Hiram Walker and Sons, Inc., Peoria; and the inauguration of a president of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., by ELISABETH McLAUGHLIN, A.M. '46, instructor in English in the Galesburg division of the University of Illinois.

Kathryn M. Myers
(See Class of 1931 Notes)

1930

DR. M. REID CHAPPEL is now permanently located for the practice of medicine and surgery at 11826 Long Beach Blvd., Lynwood, Calif. An Athens physician before the war, Dr. Chappel served in military hospitals in the States and in Germany, leaving the service with the rank of major.

1931

MARY KATHERINE DAUM, secretary to

B. T. GROVER, '19, assistant to President John C. Baker at Ohio University, was called to her home in Marysville last month by the death of her mother, who died, following a long illness, at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Charles Tritch, in Greenville.

KATHRYN M. MYERS, A.M. '36 (see picture), is nearing the completion of her second year as instructor in French and Spanish at Kingswood School Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Miss Myers has previously taught in high schools at Oak Hill and Athens, Ohio, and Lansing, Mich. Her present school, a private school for girls, is one of the institutions included in the Cranbrook Foundation founded by George Booth, owner of the Detroit News. Other institutions of the foundation are: Christ's Church, an Episcopal community church; Cranbrook School, for boys; the Cranbrook Institute of Science; Brookside School, for children of kindergarten age and through the sixth grade, and the well-known Academy of Art headed by the great Swedish sculptor, Carl Milleis, and the architect, Mr. Sarinen. All of these institutions are located about 20 miles north of the center of Detroit on a beautiful tract of 500 acres of hill land and lakes. Kingswood is said by many to be the finest private school in the country with respect to beauty of natural environment and elegance of the school plant. The Kingswood teacher expresses the hope that "I may sometime have the pleasure of a visit from some of my former Ohio University friends to this institution that is in its own way unique in the educational field." Miss Myers' school is essentially a preparatory school, preparing principally for the eastern women's colleges.

1932

A former teacher in Lash High School, Zanesville, EARL M. WOOD, A.M. '38, with Mrs. Wood (ESTHER WELLS, '33) and their children, David and Judy, moved to Prescott, Arizona, last fall to accept a teaching position in Prescott High School.

Before her marriage a teacher in the Cadiz schools, MYRTLE BALDERSON, 2-yr., is now the wife of Lieut. (i.g.) J. T. McDonald, Jr., of the Navy's Hospital Corps. Both the Navy man and his wife are located at the Naval Air Station at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

1933

With an effort, no doubt, to prevent false hopes on the part of the Alumni Secretary, ROBERT F. WILLOUGHBY recently filled out an address verification card, giving his occupation as that of manager of the Willoughby Chevrolet Co., Richmond, Ind., and then wrote in large letters, "NO CARS!" Bob was a haliback on Don Peden's famous gridiron team of 1932 that beat the Navy at Annapolis, 14-0.

BERNARD X. SADOSKY, athletic coach at Highlands High School in Ft. Thomas, Ky., was a campus visitor the other day, calling upon his former Bobcat gridiron teammate, KERMIT BLOSSER, '32, now assistant football coach at his alma mater, and looking over the 1947 Bobcats during their spring training at Ohio Stadium. The Kentucky coach is the husband of the former FERN SARGENT, '31, 2-yr., and a brother of LENARD SADOSKY, also of the Class of 1933 and another Bobcat gridder who was a member of the football team that beat the Navy on that memorable November afternoon in 1932.

1934

Mrs. W. Kenneth Smith (FLORENCE STEELE), a former social worker in Ohio and Massachusetts, is now a resident of Huntington, L. I., N. Y. and the mother of two children, Marilynne Jane, 7, and Alison Lee, 5.

1935

ELDON R. GROVER is instructor in English and director of the glee club at Nichols College, Dudley, Mass. He has previously taught at The Hill School, a private school for boys in Pottstown, Pa., and at the Kentucky Military Institute, Lyndon, Ky.

Patricia M. Reed
(See Class of 1938 Notes)

Mrs. Robert L. Gallian (ADINE MAAG) is a clerk-stenographer at Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus. The Columbus institution is nationally known for its industrial and scientific research.

1936

Among the appointments made to the Ohio University faculty at the beginning of the second semester this year were those of ROBERT C. WICKHAM, to an instructorship in engineering drawing; and R. M. RICE, '42, as an acting instructor in violin. Instructor Wickham was teaching in the high school at Bedford at the time of his appointment. Mrs. Wickham is the former CAROLYN FULLER, '37. Instructor Rice, an Army veteran who married one of the Navy's WAVES, came to the campus last fall as a graduate student and was advanced to his present status in February. He has been concertmaster of the Ohio University Symphony Orchestra during the present year.

KAY MURPHY, who has been a staff feature writer for the Miami (Fla.) Herald for the past five years and a society news correspondent for the Chicago Daily News, has added new activities to her schedule. She is now in her second semester as an instructor in journalism in the Adult Education Division of the University of Miami. In her news work Miss Murphy has been privileged to meet many of the great and near-great who have vacationed in Miami or who have landed there on flights from Central and South America.

1937

DOROTHY HILTY and GWENDOLYN ABEL, '46, were mid-April campus visitors for two days. Miss Hilty is a cottage supervisor at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home in Xenia, while her companion is a social case worker for the O.S. & S.O.

Two facts of interest concerning DR. PHILIP KAVETSKY have recently come to

Baptist Ministers' Conference of Southern New York, Long Island, and New Jersey

1939

MARY AMELIA McROBERTS, a first grade teacher in the schools of Laupahoehoe, Hawaii, reports that a fellow Ohioan, LILLIAN NICHOLS, '40, is teaching the fifth grade at Pahoa, Hawaii. Both cities are on the Island of Hawaii, largest of the territorial group.

PEARL HEIDORN is an instructor in physical education at Compton College, Compton, Calif. The institution is one of junior college rank.

From his former Ohio University roommate, DR. EMIL S. KUSTIN (see Engagements), it has been learned that IRVING E. BLOCK, '39, has recently associated himself with a partner in an accounting firm under the name of Panzer & Block, Certified Public Accountants, in New York City.

1940

After almost four years of service in the Navy, LEWIS H. GRAY has returned to his previous position as instructor in industrial arts in the high school at Franklin. He and Mrs. Gray (MARY ELIZABETH WARREN, '41) have a daughter, now a year and a half old.

DR. RICHARD YOUNG is a dental surgeon with offices in the Union Trust Building, Parkersburg, W. Va. He received his D.D.S. from Ohio State University in 1943 and served as a captain in the Army Dental Corps during the war. Married and the father of two children, Richard and Judith, he maintains his residence in his old home town of Lowell because of inability to find a suitable home in the West Virginia city. Dr. Young is the son of FRANK F. YOUNG, '34, superintendent of the Lowell schools and a former Ohio University trustee, and a brother of Mrs. Robert D. Campbell (RUTH YOUNG, '32), and Mrs. Carl L. Schletter (MARY YOUNG, '34, A.M. '36), Baltimore, Md.

MRS. LENORE HOBART KENT, M.S., associate professor of child psychology at Purdue University, has recently written a booklet, "How To Help Your Children Form Good Eating Habits," which has been published by the National Dairy Council in Chicago for parents of school-age children. The booklet gives a "key" to good eating habits, a pattern for well-planned meals, and has a page devoted to the "after school snack." Mrs. Kent, who got her baccalaureate degree at Oregon State College, has also taught at Kansas State Agricultural College and at Ohio University.

1941

RICHARD E. LAWRENCE (see picture) and Eugene W. Dykes have announced the formation, in Canton, of an architectural firm to be known as Lawrence & Dykes, Architects. Their offices are located at 4542 7th St., S.W. Dick met his new partner at Wright Field, Dayton. At the Dayton field these men, as Dick puts it, "got experience and responsibility out of scale with our ages. It seems almost unbelievable to me that from July 1941 to December 1943 I worked on over $12,000,000 worth of hangars, laboratories, shops, warehouses, office buildings, aero-medical research labs and other experimental buildings. . . I was in charge of the design, detailing, and supervision of working drawings of almost $5,000,000 worth, myself." In their Canton offices these two young architects now have a 68-acre building project on the boards. When completed it will have 153 homes (some 60 of which are already occupied), 30 ten-unit apartment buildings and a 1½ million dollar shopping center. Dick is a brother of DORIS LAWRENCE now enrolled as a sophomore in Ohio University.

Persons traveling to Youngstown, Akron, or Cleveland from many points in the state and who arrive in the vicinity of Malvern (see map) about meal time will do themselves a favor to hunt up the Little Forest Inn in the latter community.

Way to the Little Forest Inn
(See Class of 1941 Notes)

the editor's desk. The first is that he has changed his name to Kavet, and the second, that, following his discharge from service with the Army Medical Corps, he established an office for the private practice of his profession at 1492 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y. With the rank of captain he served at the 91st Field Hospital in the Philippines and later in Japan.

Mrs. William R. Duggan (LUCILLE SCHUELL) is the wife of the American vice-consul at Durban, Union of South Africa. The Duggans have been in Africa for three years and have a son, David.

1938

PAUL J. HYME is safety director for the Anchor Hocking Glass Co. in Lancaster. He and Mrs. Hyme (HELEN ASHWORTH, '32) have a son, Joseph David, 5 years of age.

PATRICIA M. REED (see picture), a captain in the Women's Army Corps for 42 months, retiring with the rank of major, is now on the secretarial staff of U. S. Senator John W. Bricker in Washington, D. C.

REV. EDWARD W. W. LEWIS, A.M. '41, minister of the Central Park Baptist Church in New York City since 1943, has been elected vice president of the

Richard E. Lawrence
(See Class of 1941 Notes)

The inn is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Grunder (LENORE CORLEY) and is on State Routes 43 and 80. At first, Mrs. Grunder did the cooking but as business grew she gave up this work to become hostess of the inn. Her food had become so well liked, however, that by "popular demand" she was forced back into the kitchen. It's no wonder when one learns that the Grunders specialize in "steaks grilled in wine, chicken fried southern style in butter, grilled chops or ham steaks, Italian spaghetti or ravioli, chicken-in-a-basket, good sandwiches, with home made things that other restaurants do not have such as dumplings, corn fritters, blueberry muffins, upside down cake, fresh frozen cherry pie, different and appetizing canapés, fresh strawberry shortcake out of season, etc." U-mm, u-mm! And what's more the prices are reasonable. $1.00, $1.50, and $1.75 per plate. Incidentally, dog lovers will enjoy the Grunders' kennel of thoroughbred Collies.

On Okinawa, early in 1945, PILOT CHARLES WILLIAM ROSE was pulled by his crew from a crashed and burning B-25. It was soon discovered that one of Lt. Rose's limbs was fractured in four places. Invalided back to the States, he spent time in several Army general hospitals. Recovered to the point where he could go without a cane and brace, he was on his way home by automobile early this spring from Brooke General Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, to Marietta when, in a blinding snowstorm and on a slippery highway, his car skidded into a ditch. Mrs. Rose, the former Joyce Deramus of Albuquerque, N. Mex., who was with her husband, was not injured, but Bill suffered a broken leg. Sure, you the Interior. Although maintaining his home at Hot Springs, S. D., his occupational headquarters are at Billings, Mont. He married the former LURA JEAN KOONS, '43x, in November, 1943.

While engaging in graduate work in clinical psychology at Ohio State University this past year, AMERIGO V. PORTANTE has served as a recreation supervisor in Columbus' Department of City Recreation.

1944

IRENE E. RABINOVITZ is secretary to Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner of the Euclid Avenue Temple in Cleveland.

ADAH RUTH SUTTON is a medical technologist at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus. She received her "M.T." after completing the curriculum offered jointly by Ohio University and the hospital. Her work has been recognized by the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

Upon discharge from military service, DR. MILTON ROBINSON, a graduate of the Temple University School of Dentistry (Philadelphia, Pa.), became associated with the Guggenheim Dental Clinic in New York City, but now has opened his own office at 1712 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Robinson is features editor of a dental publication, Dental Reflector.

1945

HAROLD SALZMAN is preparing for the rabbinate at Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati.

RITA M. VASEK is a student dietitian at the U. S. Veterans Administration Hospital at Hines, Ill.

The New York Yankees again have optioned JOHNNY MALDOVAN, former Bobcat baseball pitcher, this time to Portland in the Pacific Coast League. Following a previous trial with the Yankees, Pitcher Maldovan was sent to Kansas City in the American Association for additional seasoning.

1946

MARION LOUISE VAN ZANDT is a teacher in the Unified Schools of Trona, Calif. Miss Van Zandt is a cousin of Miss MARY WARD, '25, supervising critic in the fifth grade of the University Elementary School at Ohio University.

To LAVERNE M. EGLETT (see picture), Cleveland, goes the honor and distinction of having ranked highest, scholastically, among the 360 persons who compose the graduating class of 1946. The class is made up of the February, June, and August sections of that year. Miss Eglett, who easily made Phi Beta Kappa, engaged in a number of campus activities. Her four-year average was 3.913 out of a possible 4.000. Runner-up in the class was MARION BRAUNLICH, now teaching in the high school at Canal Fulton. The third place honor went to FRANCES GAYLOR. Other high ranking scholars, in order and up to tenth place, were PATRICIA DICKEY, now Mrs. William J. Truschell; PHYLLIS RUILAND; LOUISE SCHROEDER, now Mrs. Clyde M. Lamb; BARBARA McCLELLAND; Mrs.

JEAN MIDLAM HALL; RALPH J. BITZER; and BEATRICE CALE, now Mrs. Leonard E. Selz.

MARY THRASH is secretary to the personnel manager of the National Carbon Co., Inc. at Clarksburg, W. Va.

1947

PAUL H. MILLER (see picture), a senior in the School of Journalism, will join the editorial department of the Canton Repository following graduation in June. During his campus career he has been guessed it. It was the same one that took the beating on Okinawa.

LaVerne M. Eglett
(See Class of 1946 Notes)

1942

A former AAF officer who was discharged with the rank of major, ROBERT WERNER is now a cost accountant for The Edgeman Farms, Venice, Calif. Bob married the former DORIS ZIMMERMAN, '44x, a short time after graduation from Ohio University.

After completing a fellowship at Columbia University RUTH E. McDONALD became a child guidance psychologist in the Department of Mental Hygiene of the State of New York. Recently she resigned this position to become a psychiatric social worker in the Rochester (N.Y.) State Hospital. In 1943 she was a rehabilitation specialist for the tubercular in Lowell, Mass.

1943

STEPHEN M. DAVIS, who has completed all of his work for a master's degree from Ohio University in June, is a research engineer at the Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus. The Registrar's records show that Engineer Davis earned A's in all of his postgraduate courses.

ROBERT S. KENNEY (not to be confused with LT. ROBERT C. KENNEY, '43, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas), is a former infantry officer now engaged in range classification for the Missouri Valley Development Project of the U. S. Dept. of sports editor and editor-in-chief of the Ohio University Post, sports editor of the 1947 Athena, and editor of the 1946 Freshman Handbook.

Paul H. Miller
(See Class of 1947 Notes)

CHARLES A. "CHUCK" BODAR is a sales trainee with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. in Akron. Another member of the February graduating group, JACK C. GARNER, is now in Goodyear's office training squadron.

MARJORIE MCKEE, ex, whose health forced a withdrawal from Ohio University last fall at the beginning of her senior year, teamed with another player, John Kirkpatrick, in Meadville, Pa., to win the City Ping Pong League doubles tournament by a record of six wins and no defeats. "Marge" is a daughter of GROSVENOR S. MCKEE, '16, vice president and a director of Talon, Inc. in Meadville.

ROBERT E. O'BRIEN, former business manager of the Ohio University Post, has recently joined the New York staff of Loew's Theatres, Inc. as apprentice publicity agent. Bob is also taking graduate work at New York University.

JANET DILLARD, who graduated with the January section of her class, is now employed in the Canadian and Foreign Export Department of General Motors' Frigidaire Division, in Dayton.

Cheryll Rae Sponsler, shown with her mother in the accompanying picture, has a fine Ohio University background, both her parents, her maternal grandparents, and an uncle having attended "the oldest university in the Northwest Territory." Cheryll, who was one year of age when the picture was taken, is the daughter of RAYMOND J. SPONSLE, '40, and Mrs. Sponsler (DOROTHY WAGNER, '41), 1108 S. Broad St., Ashland. The grandparents are FRED W. WAGNER, '18, and Mrs. Wagner (ETHEL HAUCHER, '18), Mansfield, and the uncle is FREDERIC V. WAGNER, '43, Cleveland. Mr. Sponsler and his father are engaged in a retail grocery and meat business in Ashland.

Roger Lane to ROBERT H. SHOEMAKER, '43, and Mrs. Shoemaker (LOIS LANE, '43), 1404 N. Alexander Ave., Royal Oak, Mich., April 30, 1947. Mr. Shoemaker is associated in an official capacity with the Kolene Corp. in Detroit.

Barbara Lynn to WILLIAM H. TURNER, '42x, and Mrs. Turner (ELEANOR MEDICUS, '41), 2770 Homehurst Ave., Pittsburgh 10, Pa., April 3, 1947. Since returning from service with the AAF, Mr. Turner has been employed at the H. J. Heinz Co. as an assistant factory industrial engineer.

Elizabeth Sue to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin R. Payer (SUE HOLMAN, '37), 4300 Euclid Ave., 409 Cleveland, April 27, 1947. The mother, an Ohio University Phi Beta, has recently authored a book, about which more anon.

Charles Douglas, III, to CHARLES D. "BUD" McAFEE, JR., '41, and Mrs. McAfee (JEAN CRAWFORD, '43), Amesville, May 2, 1947. Mr. McAfee is a teacher and coach at Ames-Bern High School. The maternal grandparents are Theodore "Ted" Crawford, a university employee who was seriously injured while helping to set up the first of the F.P.H.A. housing units for veterans, and Mrs. Crawford (MARVELLA JACOBY, '17x). An aunt, JESSIE ANN CRAWFORD, is a freshman at Ohio University.

Bruce Ellsworth to CLETUS E. McPHERSON (Jan.), '47, and Mrs. McPherson (DOROTHY RAY, '39), 5550 Foster Ave., Colonial Hills and Dales, Worthington, Feb. 15, 1947. The father, who would have graduated with the Class of 1941 had it not been for war service, is associated with the Franklin County Engineering Department.

Philip Stuart to SAMUEL F. DOWNER, '40, and Mrs. Downer (JESSIE COOPER, '38), 590 Allison Ave., Washington, Pa., May 8, 1947. Mr. Downer is assistant sales manager of the Jessop Steel Co. The new arrival, second in the family, is a grandson of the late William H. Cooper, professor of public speaking at Ohio University, and Mrs. Cooper, Athens; and a nephew of WILLIAM B. COOPER, '34, North Wilbraham, Mass., and DAVID V. COOPER, a student veteran at Ohio University.

Kathleen Louise to BERNARD H. WITSBERGER, '39, A.M. '41, and Mrs. Wits-berger, 150½ Mill St., Athens, Mar. 28, 1947. Mr. Witsberger is an instructor in Romance languages at Ohio University.

Births

Martha to Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lucas (MARY JO TWISS, '36), 13815 Clifton Blvd., Lakewood, April 7, 1947. Mr. Lucas, an investment banker, is the Ohio Manager for The Union Securities Corp. in Cleveland.

David MacLean to WALTER R. DAVIS, '39, and Mrs. Davis (PHYLLIS LOGAN, '41), 25 Mill St., Athens, April 23,

Mrs. Raymond J. Sponsler and Cheryll Rae

1947. The maternal grandparents are WILLIAM H. LOGAN, '17x and Mrs. Logan (VIOLA FOUTCH, '17x), Athens. Mr. Davis is associated with his father-in-law in the management of Logan's Book Store.

Charles Britton to EARL A. HOOPER, '42x, and Mrs. Hooper (MILDRED YAGER, '42x), Albany Road, May 1, 1947. Mr. Hooper is co-owner of a Mobil oil and gas station at the corner of Lancaster and Carpenter Streets in Athens.

Teresa Ann to WILLIAM D. WHITE and Mrs. White (IRENE WHITE, '38x), 157 Grosvenor St., Athens, Feb. 7, 1947. The father, who was taken prisoner by the Germans during action in the ETO, is now enrolled in Ohio University. The paternal grandparents are G. E. WHITE, '21x, and Mrs. White (MODELLI RIE, '25x), Athens.

Janeen to FRED SCHLEICHER, JR., and Mrs. Schleicher, Schloss Apts., Athens, Jan. 21, 1947. The father, a student-veteran, is a senior in Ohio University and a former wrestling and track star.

Cynthia Lee to PAUL A. DIDION, student-veteran at Ohio University, and Mrs. Didion, 77 S. Court St., Athens, Mar. 27, 1947. Mrs. Didion is a former secretary to Co-ordinator of Veterans Affairs, Victor Whitehouse. She is also a twin sister of Mrs. Schleicher (see preceding announcement). CLAYTON RUFFY, an Ohio University sophomore from Parma, is a brother of Mrs. Schleicher and Mrs. Didion.

Susan Margaret to D. BEN JAMES, '43, and Mrs. James (BETTY BERKE, '43x), Mineral Ridge, Dec. 4, 1946. The father is managing editor of the Niles Daily Times.

Suzanne to Mr. and Mrs. George A. Drach, Jr. (ALICE MITCHEM, '42), 1210-12th St., Santa Rosa, Calif., April 19, 1947. Mr. Drach is affiliated with the White House, a retail store in Santa Rosa. Mrs. Drach is a sister of WILLIAM A. MITCHEM, '42, Nelsonville, and a daughter of State Senator Stanley Micchem, Nelsonville.

Donald Jeffrey to DONALD T. TORRISON, student-veteran, Ohio University, and Mrs. Torrisson (VIRGINIA KINDER, '45x), University Apts., East State St., Athens, Mar. 20, 1946.

Bernadette Sue to PAUL J. ANTONIETTO, '34x, and Mrs. Antonietto, 70 W. State St., Athens, Mar. 7, 1947. Mr. Antonietto is associated with his father in the operation of a confectionery at the corner of West State and Lancaster Streets in Athens. Two of the new arrival's aunts are MARY ANTONIETTO, '20, A.M. '44, Ohio University recorder and assistant registrar, and Mrs. M. J. Burke (JOSEPHINE ANTONIETTO, '13, Clackamas, Ore.

Mary Catherine to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ward (HELEN PENNELL, '41), R. D. 1, Athens, Jan. 27, 1947.

Berlintha to SOLOMON ROSENBERG, '33x, and Mrs. Rosenberg, 220 W. State St., April 17, 1947. Mr. Rosenberg is manager of the Athens Junk Co. Mrs. Rosenberg is the former Laura Gudsynowska of Poland, both of whose parents died as the result of German atrocities.

Laurence James to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shirer (DOROTHY KIMPLON, '40), 51 W. Frambes Ave., Columbus, April 4, 1947.

Thomas Dean to ROBERT L. QUEISSER, III, and Mrs. Queisser, 73 S. Court St., Athens, Mar. 10, 1947. Mr. Queisser is an Ohio University senior and a war veteran who lost a limb while serving as an infantry officer in Italy.

John Mark to EDWIN P. CRAIG, '41, and Mrs. Craig (ELEANOR WOODWORTH, '42), Middle Ridge Rd., Madison, Ohio, Dec. 11, 1946. The father is a sales engineer with the Craig & Leitch Co. in Cleveland.

Ann Mark to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce A. King, Jr. (JIAN MOSSBARGER, '43), RFD 2, Washington, C. H., Mar. 10, 1947. The father is engaged in farming. The new arrival is a niece of GAYNDOLYS MOSSBARGER, '40, RFD 1, Washington, C. H.

ROSALIE FONOROFF, '45 (see picture on page 17), Washington, D. C., Personnel Division, Foreign Service, U.S. State Department, to Howard L. Hirsch, Mar. 23, 1947. At home: 23 Adams St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

Florence Hoffman, Aliquippa, Pa., registered medical technician, to DALE COLLINS, '43, Niles, electrical engineer, Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co. (Pittsburgh, Pa.), Sept. 14, 1946. At home: 7649 Roslyn St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

CAROL W. FELDHER, '46 (see picture), New York City, to Marvin Skydell, New York City, Mar. 2, 1947. The bride has recently given up a position as continuity and copy director for New York's Radio Station WLIB to engage in free-lance radio writing. The groom a former Navy officer, is traffic manager for Cincet International, an export firm. At home: 2206 Holland Ave., New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Skydell

MARILYN CUTTS, '45, Lakewood, secretary with Pittsburgh Steamship Co., to WILLIAM L. HEINZ, '43, Cincinnati, associated with father in management of The Doctor Heinz Co., manufacturers of Nu-Way Feeds, Mar. 8, 1947. At home: 1661 Cedar Ave., Apt. 2, Cincinnati. Two of the bridesmaids were MRS. JOANN FOX WRIGHT, '46, Oberlin, and HELEN BAILEY, '45, secretary to the dean, College of Applied Science, Ohio University. A picture of the wedding party will appear in the June issue of The Alumnus.

ELIZABETH HARLEY, Cleveland Heights, Ohio University senior, to KEITH E. FOX, Syracuse, N. Y., Ohio

Marriages

University senior-veteran, Feb. 8, 1947. At home: 28 Race St., Athens. A number of Ohio University friends of the bride and groom were members of the wedding party.

LOUISE B. ROSE, '43, East Liverpool, music student (New York City), to Andar Toth, New York City, violinist, Sept. 21, 1946. At home: 55-18 32nd Ave., Woodside, L. I., N. Y. Maid of honor: LOIS BAUMGARTNER, '44, Woodside, L. I., N. Y.

CAYRL BAIRD, Athens, sales analyst, The McBee Company, to JOHN N. HOGSETT, New London, Ohio University senior-veteran, Jan. 1, 1947. At home: 401½ S. Court St., Athens.

ELIZABETH FORD, '43, Madison, N. J., a former student in the Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers and now assistant buyer for the linen department of Bambergers in Newark, N. J., to Harold A. Huettner, Hicksville, L. I., N. Y., student-veteran, Rutgers University (New Brunswick, N. J.), Nov. 2, 1946. At home: 2 Woodside Rd., Madison, N. J.

ELIZABETH V. BIRD, '44, Athens, vocal music supervisor, public schools (Worthington), to James Bohn, Columbus, student-veteran, Ohio State University, Apr. 12, 1947. At home: 51 W. North St., Worthington. After the present school year Mr. and Mrs. Bohn will make their home in Berkeley, Calif., where Mr. Bohn will continue his education at the University of California.

BEATRICE A. CALE, '46, Muncie, Indiana, now bookkeeper, Athens Pharmacy, to LEONARD E. SELZ, Cincinnati, Ohio University senior, June 9, 1946. At home: 29 Franklin Ave., Athens.

BETTY GILHAM, '40x, Athens, medical secretary, to DR. THERON H. MORGAN, '25x, Athens physician and surgeon, Dec. 9, 1946. At home: Utah Place, Athens.

JOAN E. HUCK, '42, Lowell, supervisor, Mixed Gas Research Division, Testing Laboratories, American Gas Association (Cleveland), to Frank E. Hodgdon, Wilmington, Mass., associated with the American Gas Association (Cleveland), May 3, 1947. At home: Cleveland. MARY E. HUCK, '44, Columbus, is a sister of the bride.

BLANCHE DANFORD, '10, 2-yr., McConnellsville, former music teacher, Akron, to Otis D. Fuller, McConnellsville, live stock dealer, Oct. 20, 1946. At home: McConnellsville.

HELEN V. CRISS, '45, 3-yr., Newark, teacher (Johnstown), to WILLIAM F. PAIGE, with Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., Newark, July 3, 1946.

MARY JANE NIXON, '39, Peebles, high school teacher (Leesburg), to CHARLES L. FENNER, '38x, July 14, 1946.

EVANGELINE WATTS, '37, 2-yr.,

Crooksville, teacher, to Samuel Worthington, Jr., Crooksville, July 12, 1946.

RUTH McCCLURE, '43, Marion, teacher (Berea), to Arthur Holloway, Marion, student-veteran, Baldwin-Wallace College (Berea), July 3, 1946. At home: Berea Trailer Camp, Berea. Mrs. Henri S. Rigo (DOROTHY McCCLURE, '42), Athens, and RHEA McCCLURE, an Ohio University junior, are sisters of the bride.

Available for publication this month is the picture of ROGER J. JONES, Jr., '40, and Mrs. Jones whose marriage was reported in the April Alumnus. Mrs.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger J. Jones, Jr.

Jones was Mrs. Lounse Dutton Dates of Bristol, Va. The groom, an overseas pilot during the war, is now a co-pilot for Pan-American Airways in its Atlantic Division.

Mrs. Anne Waxler, Marietta, to GENE B. DeVOL, '39, Marietta, Apr. 2, 1947. Mr. DeVol is at present on leave of absence from the U. S. Department of Agriculture in New York City.

ALICE L. KERR, '44, Marietta, elementary teacher (Belle Glade, Fla.), to Walter Robertson, June, 1946. At home: Belle Glade.

NORMA KUHLMAN, '41, Youngstown, to Robert Ball, Youngstown, foreman, Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., June 15, 1946. At home: 1044 Lakewood Ave., Youngstown.

WILMA J. RUNYAN, '47, Springfield, assistant, Linwood Clinical Laboratory (Buffalo, N. Y.), to Donald R. McGregor, mechanical engineer, Du Pont Company, Dec. 22, 1946. At home: 210 Lancaster Ave., Buffalo 9, N. Y.

Deaths

CARL WILSON BINGMAN

CARL W. BINGMAN, '11, superintendent of the South Park Schools, an independent system in Beaumont, Texas, died April 22, 1947, following a brief illness with a heart ailment. He was 62 years of age.

Credited with one of the most remarkable administrative achievements in the history of Texas public schools, the Ohioan was widely known in his adopted state. Under his supervision the South Park schools had been developed from a small urban system to one of the best operated and organized systems—both from the standpoint of program and finances—in the entire state.

Mr. Bingman went to South Park in 1919 from East Tennessee State Teachers College, where he had been head of the department of education, to become principal of the high school. In 1923 he was appointed superintendent of the entire system, and it was under his guidance that South Park Junior College, now Lamar College, was founded. He served as president of the college for a 17-year period. The school, now enrolling some 1,500 students, is about to enter the four-year college field.

Mr. Bingman's early ancestors came to Ohio from the Isle of Guernsey. He, himself, was born near Coolville, Ohio, in 1885. He attended Ohio University, receiving the B. Ed. degree in 1911. Graduate work was done later at the University of Cincinnati, Wisconsin, and Texas, a master's degree being earned at the last named school.

After graduation from Ohio University, where he was a member of varsity basketball teams, he became principal of the high school at New Lexington and then taught in the Cincinnati schools.

He went to Fargo, N. D., in 1914 to organize a junior high school program. From Fargo he went to East Tennessee State Teachers College, and, in 1919, to Beaumont, Texas.

On Christmas Day, 1919, Mr. Bingman married Miss Lorine Pollock, daughter of a prominent Fargo jurist.

The Texas schoolman had served as president of the Southwest Division of the Texas State Teachers Association, and was prominently identified with the civic and church activities of his community. A regular attendant of the meetings of the National Education Association he always managed to pay his alma mater a visit whenever these national conferences were held in the Middle West.

Among the many marks of respect paid the memory of the deceased educator was a community-wide service in the high school gymnasium, a "resolution of honor and sympathy" passed by the Texas State Senate, and a tribute from a U. S. Congressman who had headed Mr. Bingman's board of education for 14 years before going to Washington.

Two memorial projects—one, a Bingman Memorial Scholarship at Lamar College, the other, a memorial fund of $1,000 to be used in equipping a room in a hospital about to be built in Beaumont have already been established.

Interment was made in Beaumont where Mrs. Bingman will remain. Although Supt. and Mrs. Bingman had no children, the former had six brothers and three sisters, all of whom survive.

HERBERT PALMER DUTTON

H. P. DUTTON, '08x, age 60, died Apr. 20, 1947 at Good Samaritan Hospital, Dayton, after an illness of three weeks.

Mr. Dutton was born at Hockingport, Ohio, and attended Ohio University for one year, 1904-1905, and then Ohio State University, after which he operated the Dutton Farm near Hockingport.

In 1926 he became one of the organizers of Farm Bureau insurance companies.

Carl W. Bingman

He was successively the company's state agent for Pennsylvania and Virginia and special agent in Columbus before moving to Dayton. He was for several years president of the Athens County Farm Bureau.

Mr. Dutton is survived by his wife, the former ESTELLE GODDARD, '19x, whom he married in 1928.

GRACE BEVERAGE LEE

Mrs. William W. Lee (GRACE BEVERAGE), '10x, died February 6 in Sheltering Arms Hospital, Athens, following an illness of several weeks. Born in Athens, Mrs. Lee had spent the most of her life in the local community, graduating from Athens High School in 1908.

She is survived by her husband, DR. W. W. LEE, '08, 2-yr., a dentist, a daughter, Mrs. Harold J. Rose (MARY HELEN LEE, '34), and a granddaughter, Lee Ann, all of Athens.

RICHARD KINGSLEY SLIPP

RICHARD K. SLIPP, '49x, East Orange, N. J., who attended Ohio University for more than a year following service in World War II, died recently at Orange Memorial Hospital, Orange, N. J., at the

Engagements

NANCY E. JONES, '43, Cleveland Heights, now with the American Red Cross in Japan, to Calvin B. Detwiler, Jr., Tucson, Ariz., student, Ball State College (Muncie, Ind.)

BETTY LEHNICKER, Columbus, Ohio University senior, to KYLL E. McALEY, Jr., Athens, Ohio University student-veteran. The wedding will be a July event.

DOROTHY M. HARTMAN, '41, Cambridge, formerly Athens, medical technologist, White Cross Hospital (Columbus), to Clifford T. Wig, Coatesville, Pa., Indiana University senior.

WILDA "BOOTS" RAWLES, Ohio University senior, to GRANT FERGUSON, Athens, an Ohio University student-veteran. June 28 is the date selected for the wedding.

HELEN DOROTHY OGG, '45x, Athens, bookkeeper, Bank of Athens, to RICHARD T. HOFFMAN, Canton, Ohio University student-veteran.

GENEVIEVE MAHFOOD, '44, Steubenville, teacher (Charleston, Pa.), to George S. Deepe, New Castle, Pa.

Rina Feldman, Brooklyn, N. Y., Iowa University graduate, to DR. EMIL S. KUSTIN, '40, Brooklyn. Dr. Kustin is practicing general dentistry and surgery at 184 Joralemon St., Brooklyn.

Gladys M. Bell, Akron, senior, Lake Erie College (Painesville), to EDGAR H. SWINEHART, '44, Akron, associated with the advertising department of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

age of 21. He also had attended Chicago University from which he was forced by ill health to withdraw last November. His death was sudden, although he was suffering from chronic glomerulonephritis which is thought to be incurable.

Mr. Slipp was a brother of ELAINE SLIPP, '46, now in training to become a psychiatric aide at the Institute of the Living in Hartford, Conn.

KATHERINE H. MESSENGER

MRS. KATHERINE HARTMAN MESSENGER, '29x, died at her home in Bay Village, Mar. 13, 1947. She was 40 years of age. She and her husband, PAUL MESSENGER, '29x, met while students at Ohio University, and were married in 1927. Besides the husband she is survived by a daughter, Joan.

NORMAN ORLANDO WEST

Word has only recently been received of the death, Apr. 22, 1945, of NORMAN O. WEST, '06, 2-yr., Cuyahoga Falls, a stationary engineer with the Ohio Edison Co. Mr. West was born July 10, 1882, in Medina but for many years had been a resident of Akron and, later, of its twin city, Cuyahoga Falls.

Mr. Wendell Pierce, Personnel Director, Cincinnati Public Schools interviews Jane Cranmer, '47, a prospective teacher.

The Bureau of Appointments

Business, Industry, Government, and Education are interested in securing the services of students prepared at Ohio University.

Alumni with experience since graduation are in demand.

Call on the Bureau of Appointments:

- FOR NOTICES OF VACANCIES
- FOR OCCUPATIONAL INFORMATION
- FOR AVAILABLE PEOPLE
- FOR ARRANGEMENTS FOR INTERVIEWS

Employers and Candidates — Register with the Bureau!

The Bureau of Appointments has only begun to Serve You at Graduation.

Place your Credentials in Usable Form.

For further information or registration blanks, write:

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF APPOINTMENTS

OHIO UNIVERSITY

ATHENS, OHIO

"OLDEST UNIVERSITY IN THE NORTHWEST TERRITORY"

